

MASS TRANSIT SYSTEM . . .

Aid Applications To Go In Soon

By GARY CLAXTON
Associated Press Writer
Applications will likely be submitted within two months to the U.S. Department of Transportation for about $7.5 million to help build a previously discussed demonstration project in aerial mass transportation, according to a consulting engineer in Lincoln.

Douglas McKnight said the completed project, which he earlier outlined to interested Lincoln groups, would provide high speed trains between the Omaha and Lincoln airports and aerial systems of electrically-propelled buses and local loops through sections of both Lincoln and Omaha.

"My corporation, known as M. O. R. E. Service, Inc. (which stands for management, operation, research and engineering), has had an invitation from the Department of Transportation through Congressman (Robert) Denny (R-Neb.) to submit a proposal for a demonstration project," McKnight said.

Local Loop Eyed
The demonstration project, he said, would involve construction of one of the local loops in urban areas of either Omaha or Lincoln.

If Lincoln was selected, he said, the project would connect the two campuses of the University of Nebraska and the State Fairgrounds as well as the airport and downtown area.

A nonprofit corporation formed this week, Horizontal Automated Transit System, Inc., will coordinate with the State Office of Planning and Programming, created by the Legislature through LB1398, in the submission of the application and the administration of any subsequent program, he said.

Two-Thirds Federal
The federal grant McKnight said, would provide two-thirds of the funds with "locally raised private funds" needed to fill out the money requirement.

The private funds, he said, would be expected from industries that would be involved in the project.

The structure on which the trains would run would be constructed over railroad rights of way, involving railroad companies and the power generating industry, namely Consumers and Omaha Public Power Districts, McKnight said.

"We've met with their various boards and officials and they will be cooperative on this matter," he said.

T-Bar Structures
Specifically, the system envisioned by McKnight, a University of Pennsylvania graduate who came to Nebraska in 1921, would provide a one-way track underneath both ends of the crossbar on a series of "t-shaped" structures.

Suspended trains, electrically controlled, supported from four-wheel trucks, two trucks on each car, would run on the tracks, which would basically consist of hollow beams, McKnight said.

The structures would also support a roadway, 35 feet wide, "on which we're contemplating, after some correspondence with General Motors, the operation of private passenger cars under their pilot system, which they've had perfected for about eight years but have never been able to turn loose," McKnight said.

Pilot Takes Over
"That would permit you to drive your private passenger car onto this upper deck and then the automatic pilot would take over between towns," he said.

"This is a fairly workable system," he said. "They simply attach the control boxes to your bumper when you drive on the thing and plug it into your car's wiring system."

"With the power braking, steering and throttle control that they have now, it completely takes over," he said.

7,000 Per Hour
The high capacity lanes could handle 7,000 vehicles per hour, he said.

"The difficult thing has been that all of this mechanical equipment has been perfected but they've had no place to actually use it in this country," McKnight said. "It has to be completely separated from the ground traffic."

The suspended monorail, he said, would travel about 130-150 m.p.h. while the urban loop supported monorails, similar to those constructed for the Seattle World's Fair, would run about 50 m.p.h.

The idea "has the backing of two very large companies, Westinghouse and General Electric," he said.

McKnight said the board of directors of the newly-formed corporation consisted of:

Arnold Robinson of Norfolk Iron and Metals Co., consulting engineer Raymond H. Reed of Columbus, Lincoln attorney Frederick Wagener, who also is a Consumers Public Power District board member, and Omaha contractor Richard T. Dugdale, a member of the Omaha Public Power District board.

Southeast Plans Report On Activism

By LUCILLE HOWARD
Star Staff Writer

At Southeast High, where youths "show no signs of unrest," the student council is planning a program on student activism to report what is happening in other schools and on college campuses.

According to Ed Belsheim, council president, the student activism workshop is being arranged "to get students more involved in council activities."

Speakers for the week-long affair, scheduled at all-school assemblies, will include Gov. Norbert Tiemann, University of Nebraska Dean of Student Affairs Dr. G. Robert Ross, a former member of the Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) and a Southeast graduate who will present a "conservative view of freedom on college campuses," Belsheim said.

'Group Dynamics' Planned
One evening will be set aside for a "group dynamics" workshop for student leaders, he added.

Belsheim, 16, a senior, indicated that most Southeast students are from a conservative background and are primarily ditions are as bad as last year.

"The problem areas in the city have been resurfaced," he said.

The public works director said street crews will start next week filling in cracks.

"We want to get the job done before the cold weather sets in," Obering noted.

City Engineer Dick Erixson explained that the crack filling is needed to protect the pavement from cracking up due to moisture getting

. . . PARTIES TO FORM PARLIAMENTARY COALITION

THE COED IS A CADET

Jean Ann Sarnowski, right, a 20-year-old senior at Rider College in Trenton, N.J., is the only girl in the school's Reserve Officers Training Corps. She dates a National Guardsman and has a brother in the service in Vietnam, and she thought she should know more about the armed forces. Her boyfriend, Miss Sarnowski says, is "not enthused about my venture in ROTC."

Pentagon: If ROTC Stopped, Civilian Influence Is Lessened

Washington (AP)—Defending military training on college campuses, a special Pentagon report said Friday elimination of the ROTC program would decrease civilian influence within the national defense system.

The report, answering campus criticisms and recommending continuation of ROTC, called upon colleges and universities to play roles in Reserve Officer Training Corps affairs.

Laird Ordered Review
The 61-page document was drawn up by six college educators and three senior military officers. Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird ordered the review last spring in the wake of mounting dissent over ROTC.

The committee conceded that its study came during a period of "unprecedented faculty and student opposition to ROTC."

Three Ivy League schools — Harvard, Dartmouth and Columbia — have taken steps to curtail or drop ROTC completely.

The panel asserted that officer education on civilian campuses "strengthens our traditional civilian participation in and influence upon the military," whereas other training approaches "yield more to domination by the military organization acting on its own."

Lessen Civilian Influence
"Indeed, insofar as some critics fear 'militaristic' influence in the national defense system, opposition to ROTC is singularly inappropriate — its abolition would decrease civilian influence."

The committee said ROTC is in the national interest as a means of procuring half the regular officers in the service, and recommended the program be strengthened and improved rather than dropped.

Bonn, Germany (AP)—Willy Brandt emerged Friday night as the next chancellor of West Germany.

His Social Democrats and the small Free Democratic Party formally combined in a coalition that brought an end to 20 years of Christian Democratic dominance under such leaders as Konrad Adenauer, Ludwig Erhard and the current chancellor, Kurt Georg Kiesinger.

First Socialist
Brandt, 55, will be the first Socialist chancellor of West Germany. Before World War II, in 1930, Socialist Herman Mueller headed a German government.

Today's Social Democrats tread a middle ground of ideology not too far from that espoused by the Christian Democrats, and in fact the Social Democrats and Christian Democrats have been ruling in coalition for the last four years.

Lately they have differed over revaluation of the mark, with the Social Democrats for it. In the wake of Sunday's elections, the mark has floated to a premium of more than five per cent over parity, supporting the Socialists' case.

Combined Majority
In Sunday's election, Brandt's party won 224 Bundestag seats and the Free Democrats under Walter Scheel, 30, giving the two parties a combined majority of 12 seats over the Christian Democrats with 242.

The electorate gave neither Social Democrats nor Christian Democrats a clear mandate to rule alone and Brandt was the successful wooer of the Free Democrats, who held the balance of power.

The Bundestag will be called into session later this month—probably Oct. 21—for a vote on Brandt's candidacy.

Policies Similar
The two partners in the new coalition pursue an almost identical foreign policy, based on firm commitment to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and close cooperation with the United States.

Both strongly support European unification and champion expansion of the European Common Market through admission of Britain and other countries.

Brandt, now the foreign minister, and Scheel want measures to improve relations with the Soviet Union and other East European Communist states, and favor closer contacts with the East German Communist regime.

Kiesinger has warned that the coalition's East European overtures could be a serious danger to West Germany.

Signature Expected
One of the new government's first important foreign policy moves is expected to be to sign the treaty banning the spread of nuclear weapons.

Brandt's insistence on signing it was thwarted by the Christian Democrats, who wanted special guarantees against discrimination in peaceful development of nuclear energy.

Domestically, Brandt will act swiftly to harness the booming economy.

Mark Value
The new government is expected to order the Federal Bank to restore a fixed exchange rate for the German mark. It will probably increase by up to six per cent, the amount the mark has risen since it was freed on Monday.

The new coalition also is expected to abolish the four per cent surtax on German exports and the four per cent tax concession on imports.

The coalition pact also includes a plan to reduce the voting age from 21 to 18 years, to double working men's tax concessions and shorten the present 18-month conscription period.

Military Debate Shakes House

•The New York Times

Washington — Shaken by the most acrimonious debate of the year, a subdued House passed a $21.35 billion military procurement bill Friday night. The final vote was 311 to 44.

Outraged by limitations on debate — "45-second dribbles," as one member termed it — friends and foes alike of military spending had literally rocked the chamber with their protests during the day.

But in the end, the bill emerged much as the House Armed Services Committee had written it, carrying funds for a host of controversial programs, including the Safeguard antiballistic missile system, additional C5A giant transports, the F5 Freedom Fighter and increasing Navy shipbuilding.

One Win Eked Out
Liberals and moderates eked out but one major victory, writing into the bill tighter restrictions on the use of chemical and biological warfare weapons.

The amendment would require the Defense Department to make semi-annual reports on expenditures and programs for chemical and biological weapons, tighten up on shipping and storage of such weapons and require notice of open-air testing.

The liberals and moderates also won lesser, but still important, concessions when the floor manager agreed to delete from the bill provisions allowing the Armed Services Committee to classify information and to utilize services, information, facilities and personnel of any government agency.

As passed by the House, the bill exceeds the amount approved by the Senate by slightly more than $1 billion. Differences will be worked out in Senate-House conference.

The struggle over whether the nation should deploy the ABM dominated the closing rounds of debate.

At issue was whether the bill should be sent back to committee with instructions to delete not only funds for deployment but funds for research and development of the Safeguard. The recom-mittal motion was rejected 270 to 93.

Critics of deployment termed the tactic "unfair," arguing that they had not opposed continued research and development, simply deployment. But it was not any of the military hardware that touched off debate that at times approached hysteria.

Shouts Of Outrage
It was the 30-minute limitation on debate, proposed by Rep. Samuel Stratton, D-N.Y., and approved by a divided House that produced shouts of outrage from both sides of the aisle.

Under the limitation, each member wishing to speak was allotted just 45 seconds. Speaking rapidly, Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., sought to explain his proposal to trim funds for the airborne warning and control system and an interceptor program.

Gaveled down at the end of his 45 seconds, he "borrowed" 45 seconds of time from colleagues, only to be gaveled down again and again as the time allotments expired.

Jumping to his feet, Rep. John Anderson of Illinois, leader of the House Republican Conference, cried out: "This is an outrage. This is nothing but a gag rule."

Pleasant Dale Couple Killed In Accident

Howard Lake, Minn. (AP)—Samuel Pennington, 76, and his wife Norma, 70, Pleasant Dale, Neb., were killed Friday when the car Pennington was driving was in collision with another vehicle.

The crash happened on Highway 12, near Howard Lake, 40 miles west of Minneapolis.

Driver of the other car, George Zandarorski, 55, Hopkins, Minn., was hospitalized in serious condition.

City Streets 'In Pretty Good Shape' For Winter

By TOM EKVALL
Star Staff Writer

City Public Works Director Robert Obering said Friday Lincoln streets are in "pretty good shape" now following the extensive damage done to the streets by weather conditions last winter.

Obering said that almost all street repair work is finished and that the streets should make it through the upcoming winter months without much damage unless weather conditions are as bad as last year.

"The problem areas in the city have been resurfaced," he said.

The public works director said street crews will start next week filling in cracks.

"We want to get the job done before the cold weather sets in," Obering noted.

City Engineer Dick Erixson explained that the crack filling is needed to protect the pavement from cracking up due to moisture getting underneath the surface of the pavement.

The city engineer predicted that the crack filling would take eight to ten weeks to complete.

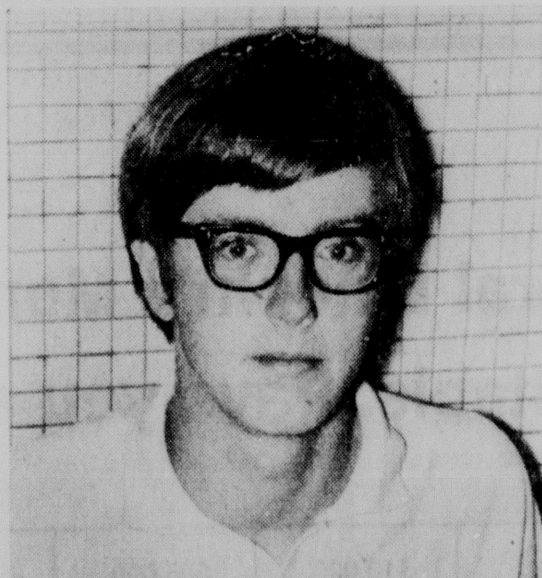

Erixson said that there are still some minor chuckholes which must still be repaired.

"However, all the major chuckholes are filled," he noted.

He added that there are still 30 to 35 blocks which the city has under contract which must be paved prior to the end of this year in addition to work in progress on K, L and 27th.

Erixson said the K and L St. work should be done by Jan. 1. He said that the present resurfacing and widening work on K and L Sts. between 10th and 13th Sts. should be done in three weeks and that the work between 13th and 16th should be done by the early part of December.

BELSHEIM . . . get more involved. concerned about going to college, rather than reforms or political issues.

The school administration, he pointed out, seems to be "quite liberal" in attitude toward the newspaper and student proposals, which tends to reduce the need for underground newspapers and agitation.

The council president said he is not aware of any student feeling for major revisions in the school's curriculum, largely college-oriented.

Students Have Voice
The high-schoolers had the opportunity to provide suggestions for study topics in English classes that will be offered during the last three weeks of the semester, he noted. At the end of the Project English course, Southeast instructors will teach a variety of short subjects such as speed reading, a particular author and modern fiction.

Among the top ten students in his class, Belsheim would like to see the school adopt modular scheduling and a pass-fail system to "take some pressure off of students."

He believes that a pass-fail system would make it easier for teachers to evaluate students. The pressure of grades has led to cheating and use of drugs on the part of youths all over the nation, although those are not large-scale problems at Southeast yet, he added.

Drug Abuse Is Topic

The Southeast council will follow the lead of the Intra-City Student Council in presenting programs on drug abuse in the school, according to Belsheim. The anti-drug campaign may also be carried to junior high and elementary schools in the area, where Southeast students already have attempted to discourage smoking among teen-agers, he commented.

Belsheim was elected vice president of the Intra-City Student Council. He is also a member of the Southeast French Club, track and tennis teams and attends the Cathedral of the Risen Christ.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Belsheim of 3838 Sheridan, Belsheim plans to study medicine in college.

Frankfurt — The first international money other than gold, to be called Special Drawing Rights, was created by the member nations of the International Monetary Fund Friday to settle accounts among nations and foster steady growth in international trade, travel and investment. (More on Page 2.)

Brandt To Be Chancellor

Bonn — Minutes after the leaders of the tiny Free Democratic Party voted to join the Social Democrats of Willy Brandt in a coalition government for West Germany, Brandt and Walter Scheel, the Free Democratic leader, called on President Gustav Heinemann to announce that they were willing to form a coalition government when the Bundestag convenes Oct. 20. (More on Page 1.)

Greek Controls Relaxed

Athens — Press censorship, arbitrary arrest and trial by military courts were abolished by the military-backed regime in Greece except for cases involving public order and security. (More on Page 14.)

Laborites End Convention

London — Britain's ruling Labor Party ended a conference with endorsement of a policy statement called "agenda for a generation" containing a vague reference to future wage restraints. The statement, which had become a symbol to labor leaders despite the party's practical abandonment of wage restraint because of union opposition, passed by more than a 3-2 margin.

Washington — Shaken by the most acrimonious debate of the year, the House passed a $21.35 billion military procurement bill Friday night. (More on Page 1.)

Brazilian Generals Make Move

Rio de Janeiro — Only one of this city's 10 daily newspapers ignored army instructions and printed an announcement by the presidential palace that President Arthur da Costa e Silva had recovered enough from a recent stroke to walk unaided from one room to another. Observers believed the instructions were final evidence that the military would replace Costa e Silva with a general.

ROTC Reform Urged

Washington — A special committee established to consider deep criticism of the Reserve Officer Training Corps at several colleges recommended that the program be continued, but reformed. (More on Page 1.)

Percy Makes Proposal

Washington — Republican Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois urged the Nixon administration to respond to the current lull in fighting in Vietnam "by ending the bombing and shelling of South Vietnam and suspending ground offensive operations as long as the enemy takes no advantage of the situation." (More on Page 14.)

Mrs. Meir In Milwaukee

Milwaukee — Premier Golda Meir of Israel paid a nostalgic visit to this city Friday, to the school where she began her education 63 years ago after arriving here from Russia.

Charges Traded

Washington — Supporters and opponents of Judge Clement F. Haynsworth Jr.'s appointment to the Supreme Court traded charges Friday. (More on Page 2.)

Rail Strike Blocked

... NIXON INTERVENES IN LABOR DISPUTE

Key Biscayne, Fla. (UPI) — President Nixon intervened in a labor dispute for the first time Friday, blocking a threatened midnight rail strike that would have deprived the nation of "essential transportation service."

Nixon, spending a long weekend at his Florida vacation retreat, acted under emergency provisions of the Railway Labor Act when it became apparent that this was the only hope of avoiding the crippling walkout.

His intervention blocked a strike for at least 60 days, and set up a three-man emergency board to look into the dispute.

Four shopcraft unions had threatened a strike at 12:01 a.m. Saturday against seven of the nation's railroads. Most of the lines had said they would shut down operations if the unions went ahead with their selective strike strategy.

Both sides agreed to abide by the President's order, and press secretary Ronald Ziegler told newsmen the White House fully expected the parties involved "will be able to reach an agreement during the 60-day period."

Ziegler said the President stepped into the dispute because "it was evident the parties would not be able to resolve their differences in the period available (before the strike deadline)."

The impasse in negotiations resulted when the unions sought a 10% basic wage increase retroactive to Jan. 1 and an additional 20 cents per hour for skilled workers. The companies offered a two per cent basic hike retroactive to the first of the year and three per cent more from July 1, the settlement reached earlier with other rail unions.

William W. Wimpfinger, chief negotiator for the four shopcraft unions, charged in Atlantic City, N.J., where the AFL-CIO is in convention, that the railroads had "put a gun against the President's head" by threatening to close down all major roads.

But a spokesman for the Seaboard Coast Line Railroad, one of those which had planned to shut down, said, "They're trying to pick us off one by one, and we must preserve the integrity of the multi-employer bargaining unit and exercise our right in self-help."

Nixon To Fight For Haynsworth

Washington (UPI) — President Nixon told Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott Friday that "I intend to do all that I can" to win confirmation of Judge Clement F. Haynsworth Jr. to be a Supreme Court justice.

The President's strongly worded defense of Haynsworth against what he termed "unfounded allegations" was contained in a letter dated Thursday, the day rumors — later denied — swept the Capitol that Haynsworth had asked that his name be withdrawn.

Duplicated copies of the "Dear Hugh" letter, on White House stationery and signed with the initials "R.N.," were distributed to newsmen shortly after Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., announced he would actively seek to prevent Haynsworth's confirmation.

New Evidence

Bayh, a member of the Senate Judiciary Committee, said he had just taken a look at newly available financial documents and indicated he considered the Haynsworth matter no less serious than the charges that forced Abe Fortas to ask that his nomination to the Supreme Court be withdrawn.

But the President wrote Scott that he was aware of various allegations about Haynsworth and added:

"I have most carefully examined the record. There is nothing whatsoever that impeaches the integrity of Judge Haynsworth. There is no question as to his competence as a judge. There is no proper faulting of his posture vis-a-vis civil rights or labor.

'Very Wrong'

"It would be very wrong to allow unfounded allegations to deny this country the distinguished service of Judge Haynsworth on the Supreme Court."

"I intend to do all that I can to assure his nomination."

Nixon sent copies of the letter to Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., chairman of the Judiciary Committee, and Sen. Roman L. Hruska of Nebraska, its ranking Republican member. He urged Scott to relay his message to other senators.

For Example

Bayh told newsmen he now had positive evidence, for example, that Haynsworth, as trustee of a profit-sharing and pension fund of a vending machine company, failed to file reports with the Labor Department, as required by law.

"Is there any difference between the Haynsworth and the Fortas cases?" he was asked at a news conference.

"Yes, there's a difference. The difference is that one man was named Fortas and the other is named Haynsworth," Bayh replied.

He accused conservative opponents of Fortas of using a double standard in supporting the nomination of Haynsworth, a 56-year-old South Carolinian.

Policewoman Relates Yippie Chief's Words

Chicago (UPI) — An undercover policewoman testified Friday that Yippie leader Abbie Hoffman told a band of demonstrators they would "storm" the Democratic National Convention's headquarters hotel and instructed them: "Bring bottles and cans and bricks."

Mary Ellen Dahl, testifying in the trial of Hoffman and seven other antiwar demonstrators on charges of conspiracy to incite riots, said Hoffman told the group of 60 to 100 persons, "we're not going to let the pigs stop us."

Miss Dahl said she decked herself out in hippie attire — slacks, blouse and an Army helmet — and worked her way into the group in North Side Lincoln Park on Tuesday of the tumultuous 1968 convention week.

She said Hoffman, sitting in the middle of the group, told of plans for Wednesday — the day rioting erupted in downtown Grant Park and swirled for hours around the Conrad Hilton Hotel on Michigan Avenue.

"Tomorrow we're going to meet in Grant Park and storm the Hilton," she quoted Hoffman as saying. He is the leader of the Youth International Party (Yippies).

"We're going to need lots of weapons," the policewoman quoted Hoffman as saying. "Bring bottles and cans and bricks."

Hoffman suggested the demonstrators "break the bricks in half so girls can throw them." Miss Dahl said, and also proposed that the demonstrators "pound nails through golf balls at different angles so they stick when thrown."

Rustin Tells AFL-CIO Nixon Is Trying To Cover Retreat

Atlantic City, N.J. (UPI) — Moderate civil rights leader Bayard Rustin accused the Nixon administration Friday of trying to divide Negro and white workers in an effort to "cover up its disgraceful retreat" on civil rights and to weaken the Negro-labor coalition that opposed his election.

Rustin told the AFL-CIO convention that while the administration is trying to get more Negroes jobs in the construction industry, its cutback on federal construction will reduce building job opportunities and intensify the competition between whites and Negroes for construction jobs.

He said the administration was trying "to divide black and white workers to make a major attack on the union movement by way of the building trades union.

"In this way, the administration apparently hopes to cover up its disgraceful retreat on civil rights and simultaneously to weaken the most solid force for social progress in this country — the Negro-labor coalition," Rustin told the nearly 1,000 delegates representing almost 14 million union members.

Mrs. Sue Shuman, left, and Mrs. Martha Doss, both of Virginia Beach, Va., tell of their plans to go to Paris to try to gain information about their husbands, naval aviators captured by the North Vietnamese. The two women hope to talk to North Vietnam's negotiators at the peace talks.

Prince Denies U.S. Troops In Laos

The New York Times

He charged that 40,000 North Vietnamese soldiers are "permanently stationed" in Laos. He added that he expected the North Vietnamese to begin an offensive in Laos during the dry season.

Tokyo — Prince Souvanna Phouma, the premier of Laos, categorically denied Friday that American troops are intervening in the Laotian war.

Paratroops Moving In Along DMZ

Saigon (AP) — Enemy gunners downed three U.S. aircraft and fighting flared along the demilitarized zone as American paratroopers moved in to replace departing Marines, military spokesmen said Friday.

Two of the downed aircraft were observation helicopters of the 82nd Airborne Division being used to spot enemy positions in a firefight early Friday 20 miles north of Saigon. U.S. troops on the ground lost one man killed and 10 wounded, according to field reports.

An Air Force Phantom fighter-bomber was shot down by enemy ground fire Thursday 95 miles northeast of Saigon and one crewman was killed.

The DMZ fighting between troops of the U.S. 101st Airborne Division and North Vietnamese army regulars Thursday was nothing more than a brushing engagement, but it left two Americans dead and four wounded. No enemy bodies were found.

The paratroopers are being deployed along the DMZ to help fill a gap left by the 3rd Regiment, 3rd Marine Division, which began leaving for Okinawa last Monday under President Nixon's second round of American troop withdrawals.

Paper Gold Alive

Washington (AP) — Paper gold officially came to life Friday when the International Monetary Fund voted to create and distribute $9.5 billion in new money, most of it to the world's richest nations.

The decision, at the close of the annual Fund and World Bank meeting, brought indications that the next step may be to use the good-as-gold Special Drawing Rights to help relieve the plight of poor nations.

Seventy-four countries voted overwhelmingly by secret ballot to distribute $3.5 billion Jan. 1 and $3 billion each at the start of 1971 and 1972. Almost one-fourth will go to the United States, which with 10 other major countries will receive two-thirds of the total.

The total vote was not announced, but countries with 85% of the weighted voting power had to approve. Gold-producing South Africa, which has made clear its lack of enthusiasm for the new system, abstained but has less than one per cent of the total vote.

The abstention means South Africa will be able to decide later whether it will accept SDRs, because nations which voted in favor must agree to accept them.

Paper gold is "a landmark in the process of international monetary cooperation," IMF Managing Director Pierre-Paul Schweitzer said in his closing speech.

Both Schweitzer and Robert S. McNamara, president of the World Bank, said they hoped paper gold would help increase aid to underdeveloped nations by freeing the gold in the dollars nations hold in reserve to pay for international trade.

One Dollar Coin To Honor Ike

Washington (AP) — Minting of a one dollar coin to honor President Dwight D. Eisenhower was approved Friday by the House Banking Committee.

The committee approved a bill to authorize issuance of the coin, which would be of copper and nickel composition.

Committee Chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex., said he will try to have the measure passed in time for the late president's birthday observation on Oct. 14.

Three Structures Added To Catherland

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau
Red Cloud — Catherland, that literary portion of Webster county known throughout the world, is about to memorialize its namesake in three more structures.

Martin Hits 'Easement' Proposal

... HARDIN PLAN

Washington (AP) — Nebraska's Rep. Dave Martin says while he's pleased with Agriculture Secretary Clifford Hardin's approach to farm legislation generally, he's opposed to one of his fellow Nebraskan's alternative suggestions.

At his appearance before the House Agriculture Committee last week Hardin presented several alternative ideas for new farm legislation with the responsibility for filling in the details left up to Congress.

"This is in contrast to Secretary Freeman's approach in previous years when he set forth a detailed and complete bill," Martin said in his weekly newsletter. "Secretary Hardin's reversal of this practice received unanimous approval from all committee members."

But Martin said he was not in favor of the "easement approach" to land retirement proposed by Hardin. Under this system whole farms would be converted on a voluntary basis from cropping to other uses with the government purchasing an easement, or cropping rights.

Martin said he would oppose any provision like this in the bill giving this explanation that under this approach, the land could be used for anything other than crop production.

"The significance of the easement approach," said Martin, "is that land would be retired from cropland production, put into grass, a subsidy paid, and then the owner could use it for beef production. This is a very serious challenge to our free enterprise ranchers and feeders."

Gov. Tiemann: Tourism Needs Help Of Farmers

Rapid City, S.D. (UPI) — Nebraska Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann said Friday the rancher and farmer must be encouraged to join in the promotion of tourism in Nebraska and the other midland states.

In a speech to the governors' travel trade symposium of the Old West Trail Foundation, Tiemann said the development of tourism is one way in which the prairie states can compete with the more industrialized states and still retain their rural identity.

The support of the ranchers and farmers, he said, is necessary in order to develop tourism to the fullest capability.

"When 97% of the state is in private ownership, as is the case in Nebraska, the landowner is a necessary partner in the travel business," Tiemann said. "We must get him on our team."

winning author. The quaint brick church, for instance, was the inspiration for scenes in "My Antonia" and "O Pioneers."

"The tiny Catholic church became known for its music," said Mrs. Mildred R. Bennett, president of the Willa Cather Pioneer Memorial and Educational Foundation. "The best singers around, whether

A. B. Schwarz Funeral Set For Monday

Funeral services for Albert Peter Schwarz, formerly regional head of the Internal Revenue Service inheritance tax division and longtime

A. B. SCHWARZ
Longtime Attorney

Lincoln attorney, are scheduled for 1 p.m. Monday at First Lutheran Church.

Schwarz, who lived at 1731 East Manor Drive, died Friday. He was 75.

Schwarz graduated from the University of Nebraska Law School and immediately joined the American forces in World War I. Returning home, he took up law practice in Lincoln until 1938, when he began legal work for the IRS. He retired in 1960 after having served the IRS in several Midwestern cities, and returned to Lincoln.

He was a member of First Lutheran Church; the Lincoln, Lancaster County, Nebraska and American Bar Associations; Masonic Lodge No. 54 (AF&AM); the Scottish Rite, the Sesostris Shrine; Elks Lodge No. 80; Lincoln Drum and Bugle Corps, and the Has-Beens of the Drum and Bugle Corps. He was past commander of VFW Post No. 131, a 50-year member of American Legion Post No. 3; and a member of Forty-and-Eight and Veterans of World War I. For thirty-seven years he served as secretary of the Society of the 355th Infantry. He also was a member of the Hiram Club, Farmer's Club, Electa Chapter No. 8, and the National Association of Retired Civil Employees.

Schwarz is survived by his wife, Effie, and six sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Schwarz of El Paso, Tex., Mrs. Emelle Schwartz of Milford, Mrs. Harry C. Drury of Palisade, Colo., Mrs. Robert Steele of Falls City, Mrs. Laurence C. Anderson of Tucson, Ariz., and Mrs. Martha Wenzlaff of Lincoln.

Funeral services will be officiated by the Revs. Richard H. Englund and John W. Ekwall. The family asks that memorials be sent to First Lutheran Church.

Snow Blocks Mountains

By United Press International
Autumn's first wintry storm plastered snow Friday on Rocky Mountain country where summer vacationers frolicked a few weeks ago. Foot-deep snow blocked Going-to-the-Sun Highway in Glacier National Park.

The temperature skidded to 9 above zero in Wyoming and freeze warnings were posted for a six-state area from Idaho to Nebraska's high plains.

Snow blocked Logan Pass in Glacier Park and forced the closing of passes between Old Faithful and West Thumb and Canyon Village and Tower Falls in Yellowstone National Park.

Four inches of snow covered Colorado's Berthoud and Loveland Passes and 2-mile-high Leadville, Colo. Fremont Pass near Leadville was closed.

Three inches of snow hit Teton Pass near Jackson, Wyo. Temperatures dipped to 9 above zero at Big Piney, Wyo.

or not they were Catholic, came to participate in its services."

Carpenters hope to complete the church remodeling, this month — from a new cupola cross to re-pointed brick to an all-new interior. Authenticity will be preserved through antique candlesticks and hymnals, and a mite box from the original church.

Workers will turn to the old depot — railroad red, of course — following the church construction. Already in hand are such finishing touches as an old ticket box, a stretcher and "a real Burlington baggage wagon."

"The two Woods brothers, Frank from Chicago and Thomas of Lincoln, presented us a $25,000 check for restoration of the two buildings," said Mrs. Bennett. "This is the Woods Foundation's second major donation to us."

The Catholic Church, converted to a residence about 1906, was given to the Memorial group by heirs of Mrs. Ethel Barnes. The depot had been moved and partially restored through contributions from Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Makinster of Red Cloud and Mr. and Mrs. John Quirk of Hastings.

The Episcopal Church, enriched by stained glass windows brought from Germany, was Miss Cather's own from 1922 until her death. Nebraska Bishop Russell T. Rauscher offered the Cather organization the building with the stipulation it be available for occasional services, weddings and funerals.

Five Third District Counties Named Farmer Emergency Loan Areas

Washington (AP) — Rep. Dave Martin of Nebraska said Friday five counties in the Third Congressional District of Nebraska have been designated as emergency loan areas for farmers.

They are Box Butte, Cherry, Dawes, Kimball, and Morrill counties.

Martin said farmers can make applications for loans at county offices of the Farmers Home Administration.

Man Reportedly Loses $3,700 To Robber At Door

Lincoln police are searching for a heavy-set man in the robbery of $3,700 early Friday from a 47-year-old Lincoln man.

Max Polsky of 700 So. 27th told police he was about to enter his home when a man stepped from some bushes, said, "You owe me some money" and hit Polsky in the face.

The man then took the cash from the inside pocket of Polsky's jacket, officers were told.

Polsky suffered a cut under his eye and a bloody nose.

Three Die In Chadron

Chadron (AP) — Three members of a Chadron family were killed and two other persons were injured in a head-on collision Thursday night one mile south of Chadron on U.S. 385.

State Patrol Sgt. Harry Corns identified those killed as Mike Goffena, 50; his wife Rose, 45, and their 20-year-old son Dennis.

Another Goffena son, 14-year-old Joe, was reported in satisfactory condition at a Chadron hospital, as was a lone occupant of the second car involved, 18-year-old Douglas Murdock of Chadron.

The deaths raised Nebraska's 1969 traffic fatality toll to 284, compared with 341 at this time last year.

Farm Prices Decline By 4%; Index At 309

Prices received by Nebraska farmers for the commodities they produce declined by nearly four per cent during the month ended Sept. 15, although still well above year-ago levels.

The State-Federal Division Agricultural statistics reported Friday that the Nebraska all farm commodity price index at mid-September stood at 309, down 12 points for the month but 34 points above last year.

Under the index system, the 1969-14 period is given a base rating of 100 points.

The all-crop index at 160 on Sept. 15 was off three points from mid-August but two points above September of last year.

The livestock and livestock products index declined 16 points during the month to 365. A year earlier it was 319.

Wheat prices advanced seven cents during the month, but corn and grain sorghum prices declined moderately.

Wheat was returning farmers an average of $1.14 per bushel in mid-September, up three cents from a year ago. Corn was selling at $1.08 per bushel, up three cents from last year. Grain sorghum was bringing $1.74 per hundredweight, compared with $1.48 a year earlier.

Hogs averaged $25 per hundredweight, $1.50 less than a month earlier but $5.80 above last year. Beef cattle at $27.20 were down $1.50 for the month but $1.60 above last year. Sheep held steady at $8, compared with $6 last year.

Two Farm Youth Exchange Groups Elect Officers

Halsey — Officers have been elected for two organizations associated with the Nebraska International Farm Youth Exchange program, according to W. M. Antes, state 4-H and youth leader at the University of Nebraska.

The Nebraska International Host Family Association, meeting at the state 4-H camp at Halsey, re-elected Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Lamplot of Thurston as vice presidents, and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Wittler of Stanton as secretary-treasurers.

The Nebraska IFYE Alumni Association, composed of former Nebraska delegates to foreign countries under the exchange program, selected Dale Wicke of Wauneta, president; Mrs. Richard Dye of Rosalie, vice president; Jane Wiechert of Alliance, treasurer, and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Mehl of North Platte, editors.

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Maybe one thing the world needs is a little more of the live-and-let-live philosophy. One thing is sure—it is a kind of a fish-bowl existence most of us live, constantly having to be aware of everything and everyone around us.

We liked the Associated Press story this week about an understanding judge. He had before him a youth arrested on charges of trying to hitch a ride on the Massachusetts Turnpike.

The youth had pleaded guilty and was fined $10 but lacked the money to pay the bill. Noticing the youth carried a guitar, the judge asked if he would like to sing a song for the court in lieu of the fine. The youth complied with "The Call of the Waterfall," and went on his way.

The story appeals to us simply because it has a human touch to it. Never having heard "The Call of the Waterfall," we don't know if the court felt it got its money worth, but you would think it did, judging from the title.

It is simply a pleasant thing when a song can settle an issue. Too bad we can't settle more things in that way. But it's too bad, also, that the young man had to be arrested in the first place.

We have never known exactly why hitchhiking is prohibited on such things as turnpikes and interstate routes, but we suppose it is for the sake of safety. Involved would be the safety of both drivers and the hitchhikers. The latter could easily be hit by a speeding car and the former could endanger themselves by stopping along the right-of-way.

Still, hitchhiking is a time-honored method of travel and it is rather unfortunate that we have gotten so modern that you can no longer travel by your thumb and remain in good graces with the law.

But it is too bad, also, that hitchhiking is now considered a risk from all points of view. The auto driver fears the hitchhiker and the hitchhiker himself can never be very certain of his security when he is picked up.

There was a time when you could pick up a hitchhiker with little concern. A lot of good people were hitchhiking—they just lacked the money to travel in any other way.

Young boys frequently hitchhiked and it didn't use to take long to get a ride. Young people still hitchhike on the streets of Lincoln, for instance, but we bet they wait a lot longer for a ride than did the young people of 25 years ago.

It's all a part of the different kind of world in which we live today — a more skeptical, violent and fast-moving world.

You find something of the same thing in another Associated Press story—this one about dogs and a mailman. When dogcatchers tried to apprehend the dogs following a mailman in Indianapolis, the mailman protested, because the dogs were his friends.

Finally, the dog-catcher called the police and the whole thing ended up in a fight in a neighborhood tavern. The mailman and the tavern keeper were arrested for disorderly conduct and for interfering with an officer.

It doesn't surprise us. It just isn't the thing any more for a mailman to be friends with any dogs. Most of the dogs are now tied up and don't have much chance to make friends with anyone outside their own family.

The mailman hardly ever sees those to whom he delivers the mail and few routes seem to have the same mailman for a very long period of time. Years ago, the mailman was a close and integral part of the lives of the people who lived on his route. Today, he simply represents another service.

Whether it is better or worse, we don't really "live" nor are we "let live" as was the case a generation ago.

PHYLLIS BATTELLE

The Peculiar Futility Of Nearly All Things

NEW YORK — I am in the process of moving from an office on the 12th floor to an office on the 16th floor. I am plotting how to make it glamorous and exotic, while retaining the same furniture I now have in my unglamorous, unexciting office. I am packing up books so that I can unpack them again four days and four stories from now. I am dusting things which will be dusty again a week from Thursday. I am disposing of old clutter to make room for new clutter. I am going philosophically berserk.

"The business of cooking is futile," actress Mary Tyler Moore once told me. "You slave away in the kitchen for hours and hours, and then people come along and eat everything and it's gone."

It's like that, moving. You work and work and what have you got in the end? The same appurtenances with a different aperture.

When you come right down to it, most of life's routines wind up in similar futilities.

You make the beds, and people come along and sleep in them.

You mop the foyer floor, and somebody's dirty feet walk in from the doorstep and soil it again.

You sweep the doorstep, and someone with dirty feet from the sidewalk dirties it again.

You sweep the sidewalk and somebody steps out of a cab that had chewing gum on the floor and the effort is shot.

You clean the oven, and then you broil lamb chops and what the heck.

You iron a shirt, and somebody always wears it.

You buy a drip-dry dress so you won't have to go to the laundry and the bathroom gets wet. You mop the floor and the mop gets wet. You wring out the mop and your hands get wet. You wipe your hands on the towel — and you have to go to the laundry anyway.

You work and work to save your money for something fabulous, and then the doctor takes it in exchange for the advice that you're working too hard.

You wash the dishes and put them away and somebody always says it's time for lunch.

You dust the window sills, and that dust lands on the dining room table. You dust the dining room table, and that dust goes back to the window sills.

You threaten to slit your throat and somebody reminds you that this is unwise because we're having turkey tonight — and who's going to wash the knife?

So in desperation you write a column like this, and it is curiously reassuring because you know that somewhere a woman who has just mopped the foyer floor may pick it up, remark "ah-hah," and place it outside the door as a mat for the dirty and/or chewing-gummed boots of her young.

It is satisfying to do something for somebody. Now, back to the moving.

'I Can Lick Any Man In The House'

An Objective Look

The Lincoln Human Rights Commission, now in its fourth year, arrives at a new turning point with the naming of public relations executive James Raglin as its chairman. Raglin's first act was to appoint Gary Hill, a former chairman who has done yeoman work for the commission, to head a review of the activities of the agency since its creation and to list its successes and failures.

The review is necessary, in Raglin's opinion, in order to determine how the commission can become a more effective aid to city government. "We want an objective history, an inventory of what's been done — there is no reason to think that we've done well or not done well; we don't know quite what we've started in only four years," he offers.

After its past performance is measured, the commission might decide to change emphasis. It could give up its present preoccupation with investigating cases of discriminatory practices and attempt to reinforce and supplement the role of Human Rights Officer Gerry Henderson, or, on the other hand, it could seek subpoena powers and go further into the investigative field. It also might choose to delve more deeply into the areas of educational and job opportunities.

Whatever its future program, the commission faces a real challenge and its performance should be judged in light of its responsibilities.

It will be difficult for the commission to evolve a consistent program, because it is operating in that delicate area of people trying to get along together. And the commission's success cannot be measured in terms of that of the tax collector, for example, who attains 90% or more of his goal. The commission's percentage will be much less, because deep-seated mistrust and bigotry are not something easily eradicated.

Citizens Are Losers

There are those who disagree, but from our point of view, the citizens of Nebraska are the losers as a result of yesterday's State Supreme Court decision in the school lands case. By failing to reach a five-vote majority, the high court validated the legislatively directed sale of more than a million acres of state school lands.

Already, well over a million acres of such land, a legacy of the federal government to Nebraska with its statehood, have been sold. In the court opinion this week, the majority finding noted that the state now has $15 million in its permanent school fund, representing proceeds from the sale over the years of 1.3 million acres of school land. That 1.3 million acres, if owned by the state, would have an approximate valuation of $250 million today, said the opinion.

MARQUIS CHILDS

Gromyko Says 'Soon' On Arms Talk Decision; Problem Of China Thought Occupying Soviets

NEW YORK — It hardly comes under the heading of social notes from all over and yet, in its significance, it rates little more than that. After spending 10 days at the United Nations, Andrei Gromyko has departed for home by way of a courtesy stop in Canada.

Gloomy Grom, as he is sometimes known, could not have been more genial. At the exchange of dinners with Secretary of State William P. Rogers, the humorous anecdotes flowed with the vodka and the champagne. And these occasionally at the expense of the rigid-ties and contradictions in the Soviet system.

The impression grew that Gromyko had nothing on his mind or, at any rate, nothing he was ready to disclose. His arrival in New York with Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin had been largely anticipated in the belief that he was bringing word of the start of the long-delayed strategic arms limitation talks. In Moscow in July, Gromyko in a speech to the Supreme Soviet had spoken hopefully of the early start of SALT, looking to the limitation and reduction of both offensive and defensive nuclear weapons.

In New York he said merely that the answer would come soon and it would be favorable. Attempting to interpret this cryptic message, the analysts rushed to their Russian dictionaries to find the word Gromyko had used for soon. The time span in Russian of soon appears to be considerably more generous than that of the word in English.

So the drift continues for an indeterminate time and the spiral of the nuclear arms race thrusts relentlessly upward. United States tests of the multiple independently targeted re-entry vehicle, MIRV, are well into the second year. The Soviets are also believed to be conducting firing tests of their own MIRV.

America's Poseidon submarines are each getting additional missiles to an ultimate total of 160. The widely held view in Washington is that the Soviets are advancing rapidly on all nuclear fronts.

Each advance makes it that much more difficult to arrive at a pause and stock-taking. At the present rate, the game of nuclear one-upmanship has no end. It is certain to take an increasing share of resources desperately needed in both countries. The threatening shadow of an accident or the consequences of the fear of a rival first-strike capability grow ever darker.

In November the Russians were eager for arms talks. The outgoing Johnson administration was anxious to make at least a token start. The incoming Nixon team said no, since they wanted to make their own survey of the lay of the land.

What has happened in the interval of nearly a year to cool the Soviet approach? Is it resentment of the long American delay from roughly mid-November to June? With Gromyko so unforthcoming, guesswork is the only answer.

The best guess is Moscow's preoccupation with China. This is of such obsessive concern that the men in the Kremlin relegate everything else to second place. Hints

They Had A Dream

Benjamin O. Davis Jr. was recommended for appointment to West Point in 1932, but he held little hope that he would be admitted. If admitted, he knew it would be difficult to succeed. In the history of West Point, only three Negroes had ever graduated — the last in 1889.

Davis was an excellent scholar but in the face of such forbidding statistics, he flunked the entrance exams. He tried again, though, and the second time he made it.

Davis, 22 years later, became a general — the first of his race in the history of the Air Force. In 1965, he was promoted to three-star rank, setting another precedent for the Negro in the military.

Born in Washington, D.C., in 1912, Davis was an Army "brat" whose father set him a difficult example. B. O. Davis Sr. had enlisted in the Army during the Spanish-American War. Before retiring in 1948, he had become the first Negro general in Army history.

Young Davis, whose mother died when he was 5, went to grade school in Washington and in Tuskegee, Ala., where his father was assigned as a military science instructor.

Later the family moved to Cleveland, Ohio. Davis attended Central High School, established a high scholastic record, became senior class president and graduated in 1929. He was majoring in mathematics at the University of Chicago when the West Point offer changed his plans to become a teacher.

Davis graduated from West Point in 1936 and embarked on an infantry career at Ft. Benning, Ga. Then came an assignment as military science instructor at Tuskegee Institute where he had been with his father as a boy.

Once he served briefly as aide-de-camp to his father, then at Ft. Riley, Kan.

In 1942 Davis switched to the Army Air Corps, won his wings, command of the 99th Fighter Squadron and a promotion to lieutenant colonel.

Later he commanded the 332nd Fighter Group in Italy which flew 200 escort missions without losing a single bomber to enemy fighters.

In 1944 Davis was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross which his father proudly pinned on his chest in a ceremony before the all-Negro 332nd.

In 1945 Davis led a strafing attack on railway targets in Austria for which he was awarded the Silver Star for gallantry.

Davis held a variety of post war assignments before being promoted to the rank of brigadier general in 1954.

After that he became commander of Air Task Force 13 which was charged with the aerial defense of Formosa, and then chief of staff of the 12th Air Force in Germany.

In 1965, then a major general, Davis became chief of staff of all United Nations forces in Korea and second in command of U.S. forces, and was promoted to lieutenant general.

Next, he became commander of the 13th Air Force in the Philippines.

Gen. Davis is now nearing retirement and when it comes, a family tradition will end. He and his wife have no children.

The Price Of Eggs

Lincoln, Neb.

In a recent issue of The Star, an article with bold black headlines and a Washington dateline proclaimed that egg prices were up 20%. Just three or four days after this article appeared, the price of eggs on the Chicago market dropped five and three-fourths cents in one day. I have been waiting to see a companion article which would indicate that the price of eggs was down.

I think the egg producers are entitled to some equal time, as the television broadcasters call it. The original article said nothing about the fact that this is the first time in nearly two years that the egg producer was receiving a decent return on his investment in equipment, chickens, feed and labor. While it was implying that the consumer was paying a good deal more for eggs than he had been, it said nothing about the fact that the bread-winners in the families of the consumer had probably contributed more to this price rise by their wage demands than the farmer was able to make.

In recent days in the Omaha-Lincoln area, for example, eggs have been selling anywhere from 49 cents to 65 cents a dozen in the grocery stores, but the egg producers have been getting around 36 cents to 37 cents, or sometimes as high as 39 cents for eggs. Some few producers who are able to sell through quality market channels have gotten up into the 42-45-cent bracket, but only for a very short period of time. The difference then being cartons, transportation, warehousing and retailing.

The article really didn't indicate the true value of eggs even though they are up 20%. A dozen of large eggs today is giving the housewife a pound and a half of high protein food for about 2/3 if the cost of one pound of beef. The purpose of the article appeared to be to try to justify the increased cost-of-living index by blaming at least a portion of it on the higher price of eggs, and the facts that were stated in the article were probably true. The article just failed to mention that for the first time in many months, an egg producer was also getting a decent wage. And it failed to emphasize that much of this cost-of-living increase was due to increased wages for the services of transportation, processing, handling, wholesaling and retailing. The inference was that it was all the farmer's fault.

I rarely see an article in newspapers which indicates that the American housewife probably spends for food the smallest percentage of her husband's take-home pay of any country in the world. Rarely do we see articles that indicate that the cost of food today is increasing in proportion to the services demanded by the housewife, and in particular the convenience items she wants. Maybe the egg producers of the Midwest can get an article in some of the local newspapers detailing Lincoln, Nebraska, with big bold headlines which states something to the effect that "Eggs Are Cheap Compared To Many Things," and they are probably as convenient a package as is possible to produce.

In any case, I think it's fair to say that the increased price of eggs was a very, very small part of the total increase in the cost-of-living index.

School Land Sales Act Ruled Valid By Court

... MINORITY OPINION PREVAILS

By ODELL HANSON
Associated Press Writer

The Nebraska Supreme Court, in one of those unusual cases where the minority rules, gave the go-ahead Friday to sale of the 1.6 million acres of state school land.

Four of the seven judges ruled that the legislation directing sale of the land is unconstitutional, while three held the act to be valid. But under Nebraska's Constitution, five of the judges must concur to hold a legislative act unconstitutional.

Thus the opinion of the three judge minority — Judges Hale McCown, Robert Smith and Leslie Boslaugh — prevailed over the opinion of Chief Justice Paul V. White and Judges Harry A. Spencer, John E. Newton and Edward F. Carter.

In the only other recent-year case in which a minority has thus ruled, the court held 4-3 that a juvenile court act is unconstitutional for failing to give juveniles the right to jury trial in certain cases, but again a three-judge minority controlled. The juvenile court case, involving Clarence De Backer of Fremont, is under appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court and has become a nationally-watched cause.

1965 Legislation
Sale of school lands was directed by the 1965 Legislature, with the legislation undergoing some refinement amendments in 1967.

The state Democratic Party sponsored the challenge, with Loren Belker of Lincoln as private citizen plaintiff and father of a school-age son, acting on behalf of all Nebraskans similarly situated.

The Lancaster District Court dismissed the action and the appeal to the Supreme Court followed.

There had been indications that the Supreme Court was agonizing over the case. Oral arguments were heard last January. Normally an opinion is delivered within weeks of the oral arguments. But the court waited more than eight months before reporting in this instance.

The majority held, in effect, that the Legislature has usurped the rights and responsibilities of the State Board of Educational Lands and Funds which, by constitution and law, is trustee of school lands and funds.

Majority Opinion
The majority opinion written by Judge Spencer noted that the law makes sale of the lands mandatory under prescribed procedures and gives the Board of Educational Lands and Funds no discretion to approve or disapprove the sale.

"Any statute providing for the sale of school lands that does not permit the trustees to get the highest possible price is violative of the best interest of the trust and constitutionally a violation of the duties of the trustee," Judge Spencer wrote. "The statute in question forces the sale of school lands if someone bids the price at which they have previously been appraised regardless of the fact that it could be evident that a higher price might be secured if the sale is not confirmed."

Legislative debate indicated clearly the lawmakers did not intend to give the board any discretionary power, the opinion said.

"The failure to provide for a review of the public sale price is constitutionally bad. Upset bids, fraudulent bids, the chilling of bids etc. are all left by this act without remedy by the trustee."

Controlling Minority
The controlling minority, in a brief opinion, said that public auction of the lands invokes "absolute freedom for competitive bidding" and "to stifle competition or chill the bidding is a fraud upon the principle upon which the sale is founded."

Plaintiffs had suggested that if school lands are sold as leases expire — as the law directs — the market could become glutted in 1975 when the bulk of the leases expire.

But the Supreme Court minority said "possibility of a glutted market in 1975 is too remote for consideration now."

The minority held also that the Board of Educational Lands and Funds has recourse to the courts if a sale of land seems to violate their trust.

Value Estimated
Judge Spencer noted that Nebraska has $15 million in its permanent school fund, representing proceeds from the sale over the years of 1.3 million acres of school land. "That 1.3 million acres, if still owned by the state, would have an approximate valuation of $250 million."

As of December, 1967, the value of the then-remaining 1,622,159 acres of school land was appraised at $70 million.

Some sales have occurred since then, but most selling has been held up to await the outcome of the court challenge.

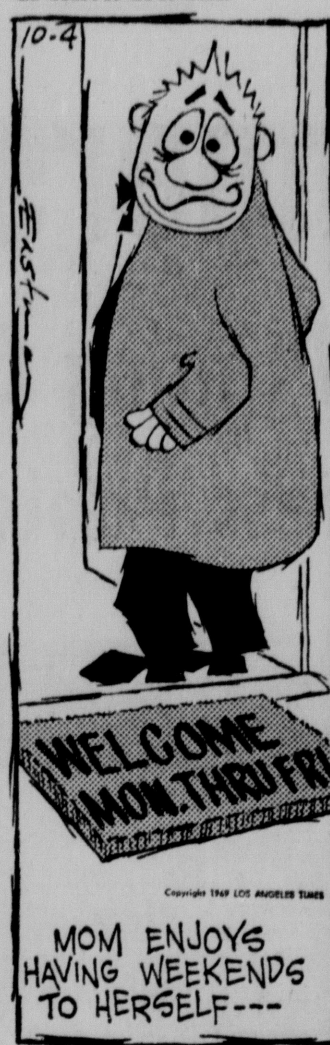

In other opinions, the court:

—Affirmed a Douglas County District Court jury verdict in favor of Oscar H. Johnson in an auto accident injury suit brought against Johnson by Jacob Schmidt Jr., a minor, through his father.

—Upheld the burglary conviction in Douglas County of Kenneth Graham, who had complained on appeal that a confession he gave was not freely and voluntarily given.

—Concurred with the Sherman County District Court in affirming an order of the county school superintendent, dissolving School District No. 16, a Class II district, and merging it with District No. 1, a Class III district.

Alvin Toffler: Education Must Be Revamped

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Social critic Alvin Toffler Friday said the education system needs to be revamped if people are to be able to cope with accelerated change in the future.

"A great many people will not be able to take it," Toffler told Nebraska Wesleyan University students.

The "premature arrival of the future" will result in "future shock" for many people, Toffler suggested.

The result, he said, will be "mass disorientation" caused by a sort of "culture shock within our own society."

Toffler, a former editor of Fortune Magazine, is the author of a new book dealing with rapid social changes which lie ahead. Appropriately, he has called the book "Future Shock."

People must be prepared to deal with "bizarre, fantastic science-fiction events which will burst upon us" by the year 2000, Toffler said.

Subterranean cities, the birth of babies outside the human body, engineered intelligence, the possibility that man may become part-machine... these are the kind of changes which man must soon confront, Toffler noted.

And these changes will raise questions of religion, law and ethics as well as purely physical or material evolution, he pointed out.

The year 2000 is fast approaching, Toffler said, and as it draws nearer, the pace of change itself accelerates.

"Will we be able to cope with, adapt to and control these changes and thereby live a rational life?" he asked.

The education system should be revamped so that it is geared to produce 21st Century people, instead of 19th Century people, Toffler said.

Councils on Future

Educational institutions should establish councils on the future composed of faculty members, students and laymen "to sketch coherent assumptions about the role of the next generation," he suggested.

They should try to foresee changes in occupations, family life and personal development, he said, concentrating particular effort on relationships between groups of people.

Then education could pattern its teaching and learning processes to fit the form of a swiftly-changing future, Toffler said.

Creighton Head 'Won't Tolerate' Racist Behavior

Omaha (UPI) — The Rev. H. W. Linn, S.J.J., president of Creighton University, said Friday he would not tolerate racist behavior on the campus.

In a statement to the university community, the Creighton president said, "During the past few weeks there have been incidents of an abusive and inflammatory nature on the part of some students and even on the part of a few teachers in the classroom. This points to the existence of intolerable white racism at Creighton."

He said, "as president of a Catholic university, I will not tolerate racist behavior on campus."

Father Linn said he has instructed the academic vice president and the vice president for student personnel to "look into the individual incidents and the policies of groups on campus and to take any preventive and corrective measures necessary."

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Wife Is Temperamental, Irritable

By ROBERT PETERSON

Q. — "What's happening to my wife? She's 48 and used to be easy to get along with. But the past year she's become temperamental and irritable. Some little thing happens to make her mad and she has a regular fit. Last night I merely mentioned that she overcooked my steak and she started yelling and threw all the dishes on the floor, and beamed a water pitcher at me. I've learned the only thing to do at these times is slap her hard across the face till she cries and put her to bed. The next morning she gets up perfectly normal as if nothing happened."

A. — Either she needs psychiatric care or she's a frustrated female who has belatedly discovered the exhilaration of blowing her top and being manhandled, cave man style. It certainly wouldn't hurt to talk with a doctor. Erratic behavior of this kind could signal early stages of mental illness.

Q. — "I'm 76 and recently sold my interest in a machine shop for well over $100,000. I was planning to leave everything to my younger sister, but she passed on last month. There are no other relatives so I'm thinking of just leaving everything to the government. After all, it was the free enterprise system that permitted me to accumulate this money. Don't you think this makes sense?"

A. — No, I think it would be foolish to leave your money to the government. Sure, our free enterprise system has been good to you. But your bequest would be so insignificant in relation to total government expenses that it wouldn't mean a thing. I think you should leave some of the money to people who have been good to you, and the rest to a small college for use in providing scholarships to poor but capable youngsters.

Q. — "You wrote about some poor guy wed to a sickly wife who never wanted to go anywhere but insisted he stay with her. You said he should curtail his social interests and spend more time at home. I disagree. Every man is entitled to a social life and if his wife is going to stay home — either because she wants to or has to — that's her problem. I'm in the same boat as that guy, only my wife gives me a loose rein. She's got sense to realize I shouldn't have to stay home just because she's got arthritis and liver trouble. If more couples kept a loose rein there would be more harmony in long term marriages.

A. — Yes, but maybe there wouldn't be so many long term marriages. Folks who take marriage vows seriously recognize their obligation in sticking with partners through sickness and health. This means spending as much time together as possible and trying to do what one can to please the other.

Disaster Funds OKd For 3 Counties, City

The State Natural Disaster Fund Board reported Friday its approval of $168,000 in flood damage grants to three Nebraska counties and one city.

The grants go to Adams County, $75,020; Clay County, $42,240; Nuckolls County, $21,400, and Hebron, $30,240, to help repair street and bridge damage resulting from Aug. 30 flooding.

Local and state agencies estimated damages exceeded $500,000 in these areas from Little Blue River flooding caused by a torrential rainfall in the Hastings vicinity.

The grants are the first to be authorized from the $1 million natural disaster fund created by the 1969 Legislature.

The fund is administered by the adjutant general and supervised by a board composed of the governor, attorney general, auditor, treasurer and secretary of state.

Office Of Governor Revises Town Hall Meeting Schedule

The previously-announced schedule of Town Hall meetings across Nebraska has been revised, the office of Gov. Norbert Tiemann announced Friday.

The meetings have been held throughout Tiemann's administration to allow residents of specific areas an opportunity to ask questions of the governor and officials of state departments as well as receive a briefing on governmental affairs.

The schedule, as now planned by the governor's office, anticipates 1969 meetings in West Omaha, Oct. 13; Blair, Oct. 14; Papillion, Oct. 21; Omaha's Near North Side, Nov. 3; Hartington, Nov. 10; Bassett, Nov. 19; West Point, Dec. 1; Albion, Dec. 2; Fremont, Dec. 8, and Wahoo, Dec. 15.

In 1970: Lincoln, Jan. 6; Falls City, Jan. 19; North Omaha, Jan. 26; Gordon, Feb. 2; Alliance, Feb. 16; Scottsbluff, Feb. 23; Kimball, March 2; Grant, March 9; McCook, March 16; Lexington, March 17; Minden, March 30; Broken Bow, April 8; Grand Island, April 13; Hastings, April 20, and Fairbury, April 27.

NARC To Be Given National Membership

The Nebraska Association for Retarded Children will be officially accepted for membership in the National Association for Retarded Children next week.

Verlin Boldry, executive secretary of the state group, said the Nebraska unit would become an official member of the national association at its annual meeting starting Wednesday in Miami.

William Wills of Omaha, president of the Nebraska association, will head a delegation of 30 Cornhuskers to the three-day convention, Boldry said.

Journal-Star Printing Co. Photographers Sweep Nebraska Press Photographers Ass'n. Awards

Harald Dreimanis

For the second consecutive year, a Journal-Star Printing Co. photographer has won the still pictures sweepstakes award given by the Nebraska Press Photographers Assn. (NPPA).

Harald Dreimanis won the honor at the NPPA convention with his picture of Cornhusker back Joe Orduna leaping over an enemy lineman. The picture also was judged first in the sports category.

Dreimanis also took first in the pictorial division, with an outdoor shot using the sun as backlighting.

Other first place honors went to Journal-Star Printing Co. photographer John Nollendorfs and Craig Callaway of the Out-state Nebraska Bureau for The Lincoln Star and The Lincoln Evening Journal.

Nollendorfs also won the second and third prizes in the sports category and second in the portrait category.

State Health Conference Adjourns

The 19th annual meeting of the Nebraska Public Health Association wound up Friday after a conference of the association's executive committee.

Approximately 130 people attended the two-day session, which featured speakers from New York, Oklahoma and Missouri as well as Nebraska.

During Friday's meeting, Dr. Irving Kass, director of the University of Nebraska's emphysema rehabilitation center at Omaha, spoke on the work of the center.

A regional South Dakota-Nebraska medical program was the topic of Dr. Harold S. Morgan, coordinator of the program.

Other speakers Friday were Dr. D. Craig Affleck, associate dean of the University of Nebraska College of Medicine, and Dr. Harvey Gunderson, director of zoology and records at the University of Nebraska museum.

In Thursday's sessions, the assembly heard from Dr. Berwyn F. Mattison of New York, executive director of the American Public Health Association, Robert Hayward of the U.S. Public Health Service in Kansas City and Dr. Charles M. Cameron, chairman of the department of health administration at the University of Oklahoma School of Health.

The first Monday in September was designated as Labor Day in an Act of Congress in 1948.

High School building to inspect progress of the construction that was supposed to have been completed by the opening of school.

The board is attempting to put pressure on the contractor to get the building finished so that 313 junior high students and 96 sixth graders can be moved in, according to Supt. John Prasch.

Cook Construction Co. had informed the school board after the spring labor union strikes were settled that the school's classroom wing would be ready for use by Sept. 1.

The slow progress, according to Prasch, has been caused by a delay in receiving lockers and the electricians being behind in their work.

Prasch declined to reveal the latest timetable for completion of the building. He noted that the dedication date has been set for Nov. 9.

Prasch said the board plans to inspect the building every Friday morning until it is finished.

The superintendent said that the board would "not necessarily" wait until the entire building is completed before moving students in from Whittier Junior High and the Belmont annexes.

Some supplies and equipment will be moved in beginning next week, he reported.

Young Lincolnite Convicted For School Burglary

A Lancaster District Court jury Friday found Robert Eugene Hoover guilty of burglary in connection with an April 10 break-in at Lincoln High School.

Hoover, 20, of 104 K, had pleaded innocent to the burglary charge.

Judge Bartlett Boyles deferred sentencing Hoover pending a motion for a new trial.

At the time of the burglary, police estimated that some $1,000 worth of damage was done to the school library.

District III Secretaries In Session

We never have heard that William Shakespeare was fortunate enough to have a secretary. We do know, however, that every business executive will agree with Mr. Shakespeare's line in "The Merchant of Venice" which gives a most apt definition of today's secretary — "the best condition'd and unwearied spirit in doing courtesies."

A good secretary, of course, is the business executive's best friend, and Lincoln is playing host to a large number of those shining examples of efficiency and tact this weekend.

Actually the members of the Cornhusker Chapter of the National Secretaries are doing the honors as hostesses for the Region III Conference of the National Secretaries Association which began last evening and which continues through Sunday morning. All sessions are at the Hotel Cornhusker.

The Friday evening conference schedule included registration, and an open house. In between was the meeting of division officers with Mrs. Ruth Patchen of Spokane, Wash., the district director, presiding.

The conference begins in earnest at 9 o'clock this morning. Mrs. Patchen will preside at the opening session and will introduce the program chairman, Mrs. Bernita K. Ward. A welcome to the group by Mrs. Laura Otto, president of the Cornhusker Chapter of the National Secretaries Association, will be followed by a welcoming address given by Mrs. Effie Larson of Omaha, president of the Nebraska-South Dakota Division of the Association. The secretaries will be extended a welcome to Lincoln by Harold Salisbury, president of the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce, and the guest speaker for the morning will be Ron Hull of the Nebraska Educational Television network.

Later in the morning Mrs. Patchen will introduce the dignitaries, Mrs. W. L. Williams will give a registration report and there will be announcements by the conference chairman, Miss Ida May Siefkes.

The remainder of the morning hours will be devoted to workshops which are to be held simultaneously. One of these will have as its topic, "CPS — In Living Color", with Mrs. Elinore Stieha, a member of the International Certified Professional Secretaries committee, leading the discussion. The workshop on programs — "Program Topic — Professional or Garden Club" will be conducted by Miss Joan Finkelhofer of Davenport, Iowa, and Miss Arlene Thieman will lead a workshop on membership. Miss Thieman is a member of the International Membership and By-Laws committee.

Following the luncheon in the Georgian room and a brief message by president-elect Miss Phyllis Bauer, there will be a summarization of the morning workshops, and reports.

The guest speaker at the banquet this evening will be Sister M. Alexius Wagner who is chairman of the Business and Business Education department at Edgewood College, Madison, Wis., whose topic will be "The CPS — Who Is Afraid Of It?" Institute representatives will be introduced by Mrs. Patchen who also will introduce all of the Certified Professional Secretaries in attendance.

The Saturday evening program will close with the presentation of awards. Miss Helen Moe of Hawkeye Chapter, in Des Moines, Iowa, will present the Trustee's award, and Mrs. Patchen will present the Northwest District awards.

Preceding adjournment at noon on Sunday there is to be an orientation seminar conducted by Mrs. Larson; Miss Alice S. Farrington of Rapid City, S.D., vice president of the Nebraska-South Dakota Division; Miss Betty Stokenholtz of Lincoln, secretary of the division, and Miss Donna Kowalke, of Sioux Falls, S.D., division treasurer.

Town Talk

We had a surprise planned for this morning — Well, maybe not too much of a surprise to those in the know, but at least it would have been exciting news.

But the best laid plans — and so on and so forth — have a habit of changing. So, we can't tell our exciting new today, but it will come later.

It comes as no surprise to anyone that a football game at the home stadium means some extra-curricular activity in the way of parties.

The next home game is Oct. 18, but Mr. and Mrs. Donald Larson aren't waiting until the day of the game to have a party. They are to be a host and hostess at their home on Friday evening, Oct. 17.

There is another party, a dinner dance, on Oct. 17, also — The members of the Allons Y club will be tripping the light fantastic on that evening, with the Gay Nighters Club dining and dancing the following evening, Oct. 18.

There are more pre-and post-game parties planned for mid-October and early November, but right now we want to mention a new address for Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Gerleman who one day soon will be changing their address from 3470 E. Pershing Dr. to 2140 Wooddale.

Suburbia—On The Go

We just happened to be glancing at Baer's Agricultural Almanac for the year 1970 and the last four months of 1969, and we noticed that the month of October includes a number of "Notable Anniversaries." For example, the 10th month seems to have been a good one with regard to transportation — At this particular time of year in 1807, Robert Fulton sailed his steamboat the "Clermont" up the Hudson and a century later, in 1908, Henry Ford unveiled his Model T. For man's feathered friends" October is still synonymous with travel — on the 23rd of this month, the swallows are once more scheduled to leave Capistrano.

Of course there have been other famous historical events in October — such as the opening of the first Turkish Bath (in Brooklyn, N.Y.), as well as John Brown's raid into Virginia; and, although the happenings we're about to mention probably won't be making headlines 100 years from now, we'd like to point out the fact that the residents of suburbia have been making a bit of history themselves.

For example, the 20th day of September, 1969, will undoubtedly be remembered by Kimberly Heights resident, Mrs. Pearl Frey, as the day that she won a trophy for her polka-dancing skills. As someone once observed, however, it "takes two to tango," and Mrs. Frey's partner in her endeavor was Glenn Kollars.

Mrs. Frey and Mr. Kollars won their first-place trophy during the Czech Festival which took place in Columbus during the weekend of Sept. 19. Mrs. Frey tells us that during the course of the three-day event, a total of 43 bands played for the enjoyment of spectators and participants.

Last Saturday evening, Mrs. Frey and Mr. Kollars were included among the guests who attended a barbecue at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gib Meiers. Following the outdoor festivities, the guests went "out on the town" to enjoy an evening of dancing.

Candlelight Ceremony On Friday

The candlelighted chancel of the Northeast Community Church formed the background, Friday evening, Oct. 3, for the wedding of Miss Sandra Ann Rohn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Rohn, and Terry Dean Lineman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lineman. The lines of the 7:30 o'clock service were read by the Rev. Dwight D. Snesrud.

Wearing frocks of pastel blue crepe complemented by bolero jackets in deep blue velvet were Miss Linda Weber and Mrs. Floyd Neiswanger, the honor attendants, and the bridesmatron, Mrs. Robert Findley. Each carried a single white chrysanthemum.

Robert Siemsen served Mr. Lineman as best man, and seating the guests were Roger Byrne and Roger Woods, both of Omaha. The groomsmen were Floyd Neiswanger and the bride's brother, Robbie Rohn.

The bride's princess gown was fashioned of white peau de soie. An overbodice of cluny lace created the high throatline and continued over the shoulders into the full, bishop sleeves, and the slender skirt was caught into back fullness and extended into a cotillion train. A Dior bow of the silk and lace held her bouffant illusion veil, and she carried a pinnacle arrangement of white orchids, stephanotis and ivy.

Mr. and Mrs. Lineman will make their home in Lincoln. The bridegroom recently completed service with the Army in Vietnam.

An autumn wedding date has been chosen by Miss Nancy Knott and her fiancé, Dick Kaufman, who are making plans for an afternoon ceremony on Saturday, Oct. 11.

The bride-to-be, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Knott, was the honored guest Tuesday evening at a bridal courtesy for which Mrs. Francis Minard was hostess at her home. During the informal evening, a miscellaneous show was presented to the former University of Nebraska coed. From the left are Miss Gail Wiggins (seated on the floor); Miss Luci Bonebright, Cortland; Miss Joyce Sharp of Brighton, Colo., and Tom Bulin.

ABBY:

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I recently learned that our 23-year-old son, now a senior in college, is the father of a child that was given away for adoption last year. Our son did not confide in us, I found this out quite by accident.

Our son and this girl did not want to rush into marriage, so they decided to give up the child, but now that she has returned home they became engaged. (They are not aware that I know about the baby.) I might add, she is a very sweet girl and I think the world of her.

My husband and I have always looked forward to our first grandchild and I am sick with grief to think that somewhere in this world I have a grandchild, whom I will never know. I haven't been able to bring myself to tell my husband yet. My question: Do I have the right to keep this from him? It is his grandchild, too.

DEAR TROUBLED: No possible good can come from your telling your husband. The "grandchild" is now somebody else's child and grandchild as well. Be kind and silent. And don't dwell on it. The cancer of life is regret.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I and our son (who is an only child) have had Sunday dinner out for many years.

David is now 15, and he's suddenly started something new. He rushes through his dinner, and when we are nowhere near finished he asks his father for the keys to the car so he can go sit in it and listen to the radio. His father doesn't like it any better than I do, but he gives him the keys and we finish without him.

David has done this when we have had others eating with us, too. I think it is rude, but my husband says if the boy prefers to sit in the car and listen to the radio, it's his privilege, but I know my husband is hurt. I'd like your opinion.

HIS MOTHER: DEAR MOTHER: It is rude, but your son is trying to tell you that he is bored. Have you tried drawing David into the conversation? Directing questions to him? Listening to him? Next time try it. He may stay through dessert.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "THE GIRLS AT THE OFFICE": Tune the boob out and don't buy his stories. A man who is constantly talking about his sex life, is doing what he does best. Talking about it.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Include "Vacation Pak" in travel plans. Your carrier saves newspaper copies at his home while you are gone. On your return he delivers them to you in handy bag at no extra charge. Call Circulation Department for this service.

Bridal Attendants Announced

Additional members of her bridal party have been announced by Miss Shari Bulin of Lincoln, whose marriage to James Angell will be an event of Friday, Oct. 10.

Lighting the chancel candles for the 7 o'clock evening service, to be solemnized at the Helzey United Methodist Church near Fairbury, will be Miss Joyce Sharp of Brighton, Colo., and Tom Bulin.

Miss Karen Sharp of Brighton will be the flower girl, and the ringbearer will be David Bulin.

Seating the guests will be Don Kalcik of Crete, and Dennis Zabel of Lincoln.

Opening lead—nine of clubs.

Some mistakes are much easier to make than others. Here is one that almost anybody might make.

South was in four hearts and West led a club. Declarer won in dummy with the king and led the queen of hearts. East grabbed the ace and returned his singleton diamond.

West had no trouble reading the return. He won with the ace and led back the queen. Dummy played the king, which East ruffed, and South later lost a spade trick to go down one.

The outcome was somewhat unlucky, yet South's defeat was largely his own fault. At the point when West returned the queen of diamonds, South could have nailed down the contract by not playing the king from dummy.

Suppose he had ducked the queen, as he should have done. Then it would not have mattered what West played next. South would have had ten iron-clad tricks, none of which could be taken away from him.

If West continued with the ten of diamonds, dummy would duck again, thus preserving the king as a trick. South would ruff the ten, draw trumps, and later discard a spade on the king of diamonds. His only losers would be the ace of hearts and A-Q of diamonds.

There is no doubt that many declarers would instinctively play dummy's king of diamonds on West's queen. It would not occur to them that ducking the queen and conceding that trick to West is merely an exchange of one loser for another. They would not realize that this trick is recoverable later because an otherwise sure spade loser is simultaneously averted.

The duck is simply a safety play to preserve the ten high-card tricks South is looking at. It protects the contract against every possible accident of fate and is therefore the right play to make.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Slein of Ceresco will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary on Sunday, Oct. 5, when they hold open house between the hours of 2 o'clock and 4 o'clock at the Community Hall in Davey.

Mr. and Mrs. Slein, who were married on Oct. 4, 1919, in North Dakota have eight children including sons Ted, Vladimir, Leonard, all of Ceresco; Frank Slein of Wahoo; Stanley Slein of Davey, and one daughter, Mrs. Donald Jelinek of Wahoo. There are 10 grandchildren.

Time To MOVE UP

It's Promotion Time...Sunday School Commencement time. Every youngster longs for this time of year. They have done well and must be promoted. They are moving ahead, making progress in the teachings of God. In that there is delight. Perhaps Promotion time should be just as important to adults as to the young. Maybe we should check our progress in Christian living. If we had to earn our yearly promotion where would we be? Are we going to church more? Have we increased our giving? Do we help more in various church programs? Do our lives reflect deeper religious beliefs? Would my pastor O.K. my promotion? Would my family give me a card? How about my relatives, friends and business associates? It is Promotion time and can we meet the challenge? Can we truly say it is Time for us To Move Up.

Seek The CITY Whose Builder Is GOD

NOT ALL ROSEY . . . Things didn't always come up rosey for the Mets this season, especially when they played the Chicago Cubs. An example was Friday's season-ending game at Wrigley Field when a Cub fan tossed a smoke bomb onto the field.

TOP PITCHERS HURLING

...Seaver, Niekro Take Mound In Opener

Atlanta (AP) — With momentum going for both teams, the New York Mets and Atlanta Braves will start their ace pitchers Saturday in the opening game of their best-of-five series for the National League championship and a spot in the 1969 World Series.

New York's Tom Seaver, biggest winner in the majors this year with a 25-7 record, will oppose knuckleballer Phil Niekro, 23-13, of the Braves.

Seaver whipped Atlanta three times during the regular season as the Mets logged an 8-4 mark against the Braves. Niekro lost three of the Mets.

Atlanta streaked to 10 straight victories and 17 triumphs in 20 games in a September surge that closed the door on the blistering five-team race for the West Division championship.

New York was in third place 9½ games behind the Chicago Cubs in mid-August but won 22 of 28 games to move ahead to stay in the East Division on Sept. 10 and then won going away by eight games.

The first two games of the series are in Atlanta starting at 3 p.m. CDT. The series moves to New York for games on Monday Tuesday and Wednesday, if necessary. The starting time for the New York games is noon, CDT.

The winner will take on the winner of the American League playoff between Baltimore and Minnesota in the World Series.

Ron Reed, 18-10, will pitch for the Braves Sunday against Jerry Kosman, 17-9. Scheduled for Monday's game are Atlanta's Pat Jarvis, 13-11, and New York's Gary Gentry, 13-12.

The long winning streaks for both teams came to an end Thursday, the final day of regular season play. Chicago clipped the Mets, 5-3, ending a nine-game string and Cincinnati stopped Atlanta 8-3, snapping a 10-game streak.

In New York's last trip to Atlanta in August, the Mets won three in a four-game series in which Tommie Agee combed Atlanta pitching for eight hits in 16 trips.

Cleon Jones, who hit .340 for the year, had a .344 average against the Braves.

The visit came before Rico Carty, who missed all of 1968 because of tuberculosis, went on a September hitting rampage for Atlanta, batting .381.

Carty had only one hit in 10 at bats against the Mets.

Manager Gil Hodges says the Mets must pitch around Hank Aaron because "he's the one who makes it go" for Atlanta.

"You can't let that man beat you, no matter who is batting behind him. You have to pitch around Henry in the clutch and take your chances."

Carty bats behind Aaron, who had 44 homers this year, one less than the league leader, Willie McCovey of the Giants. Aaron had a shot at the crown but chose to sit out the Braves' final game.

—LHS WINS, 14-13— Two-Point Try Short For East

Defending state champion Lincoln High extended its unbeaten string to 17 games at Seacrest Field Friday night, surviving a last-minute Lincoln East burst, 14-13.

The favored fifth-ranked Spartans found themselves in the same situation as last week when they successfully executed a 2-point conversion in the closing seconds to take a 15-14 triumph over Lincoln Northeast.

East quarterback Barry Blue, in a fourth down and one-yard to go for the touchdown situation with just over a minute left in the contest, apparently was trapped behind the line of scrimmage and missed his intended receiver.

But the Links' defensive halfback Rick Grell was called for pass interference, giving the Spartans a first-and-goal situation on the one-half-yard line, something which they did not need.

Blue sneaked over for the touchdown with exactly one minute remaining in the game. Then, East coach LeRoy Zentic elected, like last week against the Rockets, to try for a 2-point conversion.

Junior halfback Kent Reckewey, who skirted left end for the successful 2-pointer against Northeast last week, again tried the left side this time, but Lincoln High defensive end Ron Peery was waiting and forced Reckewey to shift speeds and try to clear the right side.

The right side was just as congested, and Reckewey twice more tried to reverse field position, backtrotting to the 43-yard line where he fell, presumably more from exhaustion than from would-be tacklers.

The game, however, was divided equally. The first half was dominated by the Links, while the Spartans controlled the second half.

Lincoln High built a 14-0 halftime lead with a touchdown in both the first and second quarters. The first score was the result of a missed Links' punt by East receivers, a play which gave Lincoln High the ball on the East 26-yard line.

Lincoln High's Rick Wade recovered the high punt, which flicked the fingers of the Spartans' Jeff Munis. Six plays later, the Links registered the first points of the game with 2:42 remaining in the first period when Grell skirted right end for 10 yards.

—CLOSE RIVALRY CONTINUES IN NORTHLAND— Husker Passes Test Porous Gopher Aerial Defense Today

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Minneapolis — If you put a good passing attack up against a so-so pass defense, one might expect a runaway football game, but if you've followed the Nebraska-Minnesota series over the years, you would never believe that.

Nebraska, with the best passing attack in the Big Eight, takes on Minnesota, which has been riddled by passes the past two weeks, in a 1:30 p.m. game here this afternoon.

The Huskers with sophomores Jerry Tagge and Van Brownson teaming up have hit 34 of 61 passes for 265 yards in two games while the Gopher secondary has been harrassed by Arizona State and Ohio U. passing to the tune of 48-26 defeats and 35-35 ties.

And for the first time this season, Nebraska has all its pass receivers healthy. This list includes tight end Jim McFarland, who made his first appearance of the season last week and caught seven for 117 yards, good for second in the Big Eight in receptions and first in yardage gained.

The only Big Eighter who has caught more passes in two games than McFarland has in one is Husker teammate Larry Frost with eight.

Split end Guy Ingles is healthy again after being slowed by pneumonia last week and No. 2 split end Dale Didur is back in harness after missing the first two games with a shoulder separation.

Then there's Frank Patrick, the converted quarterback, who grabs passes from either the split end or tight end side with his 6-7 frame making him a target easy to spot.

Coming out of the backfield on pass routes in addition to Frost is Jeff Kinney, who has suddenly become the primary rusher in the Husker ground game with I-backs Joe Orduna and Frank Vactor both sidelined by injuries.

"Our defense has been just about what we thought it would be, but had hoped it wouldn't," says Minnesota coach Murray Warmath. "We're green and inexperienced and need games to build the defense."

But while the Gophers may not have the defenses they've had in the past, their offense appears to be a couple of notches above

Brownson

Tagge

Minnesota standards.

They have scored 61 points and gained 835 yards in two games which should be enough to test a Nebraska defense that pulled the first shutout in 26 games over Texas A & M last week after giving up 31 the week before to Southern Cal.

The three people mainly responsible for that big yardage figure in the Gopher statistics are quarterback Phil Hagen, who threw for 278 yards in the loss to Arizona State,

But those fans in the horde of 7,000 who came here to back the Huskers and think they can lean back and relax while watching the Nebraskans romp freely today haven't been here before.

Last year, it took a field goal from the nine-yard line with 1:35 left for a 17-14 Husker victory.

In 1964 here, Nebraska was down by 21-12 with little more than seven minutes left before finally winning by 26-21. And in 1963 here, it was a 14-7 squeaker for the Huskers.

Even in Lincoln it's been close with a 7-0 Husker victory there in 1967.

Husker head coach Bob Devaney has yet to lose to a Big Ten school since coming to Nebraska in 1962, defeating Michigan, 25-13, that first year. Minnesota, 14-7, in 1963. Minnesota, 26-21, in 1964. Wisconsin, 37-0, in 1965. Wisconsin, 31-3, in 1966. Minnesota, 7-0, in 1967 and Minnesota, 17-14, in 1968.

Fremont Topples LSE, 21-19

Fremont — Ritch Bahe, a 165-pound junior halfback, scored all his team's points here Friday night as Fremont upset previously unbeaten and No. 2 ranked Lincoln Southeast 21-19.

Bahe, running brilliantly, rambled 84 yards in the second period on an off-tackle play, added another six points with a two-yard run in the third quarter, then capped the evening with a 93-yard pass interception rumbuck in the final period. He also scored all three extra points.

Southeast, coming into the game 3-0, had a 22-9 edge in first downs and a 358-261 margin in total offense but the big play killed the Knights all night.

Bahe put the Tigers in front 6-0 with his 84-yard run after intercepting a Joe Adams pass in the end zone and running it out to the 16. Adams had thrown three straight times from the 10 after the Knights went 65 yards in 12 plays.

The Knights drove down again later in the second period on a 77-yard march and Bob McIntyre crashed in from the eight. Adams' kick made it 7-6.

Bahe again put the Tigers in front 13-7 in the third quarter as Southeast could get its hands on the ball only twice.

Not dead yet with seven minutes to play, Southeast drove from its own 37 to paydirt in 16 plays with Rod Sieck scoring from the one-yard line with 2:01 to play. The Knights, going for the tie, decided to use a quarterback sneak, but Adams was stopped just short of the goal line.

Southeast tried an onside kick but Fremont recovered at its own 49 and proceeded to run out the clock.

The Knights lost running backs Harry Meginnis and John Winkler with ankle injuries. However, it was not determined whether either would be ready for next Friday's game at Grand Island.

Kickoff: 2 p.m., Saturday, Louis Calder Stadium, Sherman, Tex.

Sherman, Tex. — While it has been only a short series, Nebraska Wesleyan's football team will try to end three years of frustration this afternoon at Austin College.

Coach Harold Chafee's Plainsmen will take a 2-1 record deep into the heart of Texas. But chances are that won't impress many people around Sherman who are used to seeing their Kangaroos bound high in national rankings.

And 1969 is no exception for new coach Duane Nutt who took over the reigns when highly successful

Floyd Gass moved over to Oklahoma State. Austin College is a perfect 3-0 and achieved this enviable record with all the games on foreign turf.

Wesleyan has had an opposite beginning having played all of its games at home. Not only has Austin won the only two games in the history of the two teams, but NWU has never crossed the Kangaroo goal line. The count was 27-0 in 1967 and 33-0 in a rain storm at Lincoln last year.

The Wesleyan name appears several times in the 1969 Austin College football brochure, but not in a kind way. Austin's longest play from scrimmage in history came at the expense of NWU. It was last year when Kangaroo quarterback Wesley Eben passed to Roland Rainey for 94 yards and naturally a TD.

Austin's longest run of 1968 came on the opening play of the game when fullback Joe Meade rambled almost untouched through the Plainsmen for another TD. Both Meade and Eben are back in action this year although both were injured last week in the Maryville, Tenn. battle.

In the final 1968 NAIA football standings Austin and its 8-1 record was accorded the No. 16 spot in the poll. The Kangaroos had the 10th best total offensive unit in the country that averaged 434 yards per game including 472 which came at the expense of Wesleyan.

Meade was the 16th best rusher among NAIA schools with a 106 average and Eben ranked No. 21 in passing with a fantastic average of 214 yards per game. He completed 95 of 203 season pass attempts for a .468 average and 16 touchdown strikes.

Wesleyan will try to offset this with a 37-man traveling squad announced this week by coach Chafee headed by offensive stars Tom Stoutberry and Steve McKelvey.

Stoutberry, a senior from Ashland, is back at full speed and has gained 214 yards in 51 carries this year and scored four touchdowns. Tom remembers the 1968 Austin game perhaps better than any of the Plainsmen. It was against the Kangaroos that he injured his knee which ultimately required surgery.

The injury also cost him a chance at the all-time Wesleyan rushing record which appeared within his reach at the time. McKelvey, a junior quarterback from Lincoln High, really put the pigskin in the air against Concordia last week.

McKelvey engineered Wesleyan to a come from behind victory, 27-13. The Plainsmen found themselves on the short end of a 13-3 halftime score. All-in-all McKelvey threw 29 aerials in the game and hit 13 receivers.

Heading that department was sophomore transfer John McLaughlin who snagged six receptions for 92 yards and his first career touchdown as a Plainsman. On his TD trip McLaughlin displayed fine running ability as he shook off tacklers after catching the pass.

Game time is 2 p.m.

Pro Gridders Switch Sites; Vikes Choice Over GB

Baltimore (AP) — Baseball's pennant playoffs will keep one pro football team on the road and chase two other games to campuses this weekend.

By the time they all get home, this grid picker might be looking for some far-off place to hide.

The baseball playoffs pairing the New York Mets and Atlanta Braves in the National League and the Baltimore Orioles and Minnesota Twins in the American have resulted in the temporary eviction of three football clubs.

New York's twice-beaten Jets, already weary after playing three consecutive games away from home, will be at Boston for an American Football League clash original scheduled for Shea Stadium in New York.

The Baltimore Colts' National Football League game at Atlanta Stadium has been shifted to nearby Grant Field on the Georgia Tech campus. Green Bay and Minnesota will play their NFL game at the University of Minnesota's Memorial Stadium instead of Metropolitan Stadium, which the Vikings share with the baseball Twins.

Confusing? No more so than last week's AFL and NFL doings, which caught us picking the wrong way in six of 13 games — dropping the over-all record to 16-10.

This week's selections:

AFL
Saturday Night
San Diego 33, Cincinnati 14;

Bengals upset San Diego earlier on way to stunning 3-0 sendoff, but Chargers' John Hadl has passing game in harness again while Greg Cook, Cincy's rookie quarterback whiz, is ailing.

Oakland 34, Miami 18: Raiders' 11-game regular season winning streak longest in pros and they've never bowed to Dolphins in five previous meetings — although needing George Blanda field goal in closing seconds to win two weeks ago.

Sunday
New York 44, Boston 10: Joe Namath talking retirement again, but it won't come soon enough for winless Patriots, due to feel brunt of champs' wrath following successive losses to Denver and San Diego.

Houston 27, Buffalo 17: Bills matched 1968 victory total with 41-28 ambush of Denver last week. But O. J. Simpson, who exploded for 110 rushing yards vs. Broncos, will find going much rougher against Houston's league-leading defense.

Denver 27, Kansas City 15: Bronco's hopeful quarterback,

Steve Tersi and hard-running Floyd Little will bounce back from injuries. Chiefs' quarterback troubles are acute with both Len Dawson and backup Jack Lee on shelf.

NFL
Sunday
Minnesota 23, Green Bay 21: Joe Kapp unlikely to duplicate feat of seven TD passes vs. Baltimore last week against Packers, who had yielded just seven points in two starts. But momentum is with Vikings.

Dallas 36, Philadelphia 10: Cowboys' Domsday Defense has held two foes to sum of 99 rushing yards while Dallas rookie Calvin Hill has banged out 208 on his own to lead league.

Los Angeles 28, New Orleans 14: Rams got to Atlanta quarterbacks 10 times in tough 17-7 victory last week, should put another big rush on Saints' Bill Kilmer.

Detroit 26, Cleveland 24: Lions have 10-2 series bulge over Browns and new life after blanking New York last Sunday... plus mercurial Lem Barney.

Baltimore 27, Atlanta 6: Twice-embarrassed Colts haven't lost three in row since 1962 and due for stampee, but toughened-up Falcons should hold score down.

St. Louis 23, Pittsburgh 14: Cards' offense should begin to come around after pair of savage struggles with rugged Dallas, Chicago.

San Francisco 28, Washington 24: Fleet receivers Clifton McNeil, rookie Gene Washington give 49ers' John Brodie edge over redoubtable Sonny Jurgensen.

Chicago 22, New York 10: Lions boxed in Fran Tarkenton last week; look for big Bear Dick Butkus to take more direct... and destructive approach.

Lee, Moody Trail By 1 In Golf Test

Singapore (AP) — Taiwan's surprising Hsu Chi San and Hsieh Yung Yo fired rounds of 69 and 70 Friday and pushed a stroke ahead of the favored Americans after 36 holes in the 17th World Cup golf competition.

"If we can continue to play steady with two or three birdies each day, I think we can win," said Hsieh, the 35-year-old Asian champion whose 66-70-136 also put him in the lead in the individual standings.

The two Nationalist Chinese had a combined two-day score of 277, breaking out of a tie with the two Texans representing the United States, who had 278.

Orville Moody, the 14-year-old army veteran out of Killeen, Tex., who won the 1969 U.S. Open championship, and Lee Trevino, the voluble Mexican-American out of El Paso, each shot 70 over the 6,692-yard, par 71 Bukit course.

Argentina, led by Roberto deVicenzo, and Thailand, whose Suchin Suwanapongse shot a 67 for the best score of the day, were tied for third at 279, followed by Japan, 282; Australia, 283, and the Philippines, 284.

The defending champion Canadians were tied with Colombia and Wales for 11th place among the 45 competing nations with a score of 289.

Al Balding, winner of the individual trophy last year in Rome, had a 72 while his Canadian partner, George Knudson, also former individual champion, skyrocketed to a 74.

deVicenzo, who had a second round 68, and Moody were tied at 137 for second in the fight for the International Trophy, one stroke back of Hsieh. Then followed Suwanapongse and Ben Arda of the Philippines, tied at 139.

Moody, resplendent in red trousers and royal blue shirt and chatting amiably with the spectators, started slowly, going one over par on the outgoing nine and losing another shot at the 11th. However, he canned birdies at the 13th, 15th and 18th.

Trevino, troubled with his driving, topped the ball on the second hole and hooked it badly at the seventh. He also three-putted the 16th. However, he ran in four birdies, two on each side.

"That Moody talked Japanese all the way around," Trevino kidded afterward. "Isn't this a crazy American, a Mexican and a Japanese." Moody spent 11 of his army years in the Orient.

—PURDUE-STANFORD POSSIBLE PREVIEW— Alabama, Ole Miss Play; Collegiate TV Attraction

By Associated Press
Games involving powers of the Big Ten and Pacific Eight, who stock the Rose Bowl, plus a Dixie dilly at Birmingham between Alabama and Mississippi provide college football's distraction Saturday to the frenzy of the baseball playoffs.

The Alabama-Mississippi battle, matching two of the favorites for the Southeastern title, is the network television offering, timed at 8:30 p.m. CDT in order not to conflict with the full afternoon of baseball activities.

It will be shown by ABC-TV.

The Southern game will share top billing with the Purdue-Stanford clash at Lafayette, Ind., hailed as a possible preview of the Rose Bowl; top-ranked Ohio State's invasion of Washington, Notre Dame's traditional bonerocker against Michigan State, Penn State at Kansas State, Navy at Texas and Rice at California.

Mississippi is a big, tough team, fully seasoned with the return of 41 lettermen. Television viewers will see a lot of Archie Manning, Ole Miss' sharp quarterback, and Bo Bowen, a hard runner. Alabama's quarterback, Scott Hunter, wears the same No. 12 jersey made famous by Joe Namath. Johnny Musso is an exciting runner.

The best quarterback show should be produced at Lafayette, Ind., where the Purdue Boilermakers, just off a victory over Notre Dame, send Mike Phipps against Stanford's Jim Plunkett. Phipps has thrown for 449 yards and five touchdowns in two games. Plunkett 421 for four.

Notre Dame, meanwhile, will be trying to snap back against a traditionally troublesome foe in Michigan State. The Irish are slightly favored. The Spartans have shown some weaknesses on pass defense and Notre Dame has a good thrower in Joe Theissman.

Ohio State, bidding to repeat as national champion but ineligible to return to Pasadena's Rose Bowl under the Big Ten's no-repeat rule, is heavily favored at Seattle over a Washington team that already has lost two to Big Ten rivals, Michigan State and Michigan. The Buckeyes trampled Texas Christian last week 62-0 in their opener.

Idaho Pass Attack Raps Southern Foe

Mobile, Ala. (AP) — The Idaho Vandals' flashy battery of quarterbacks Steve Olson and split end Jerry Hendren connected on three touchdowns passes Friday night and paced a 31-21 intersectional football victory over Southern Mississippi.

Olson scored a touchdown in the second quarter on a keeper from the two.

He and Hendren broke the game open in the third quarter. With the Vikings ahead by 17-7 Olson tossed four yards to the shifty end for one touchdown and later for 41 yards for another to make the score 31-7 at that point.

Ex-Open Champ Receives Honors

Omaha (UPI) — Johnny Goodman, the last amateur to win the U.S. Open golf tournament, returned to Omaha from California Thursday for Johnny Goodman Appreciation Day at the Field Club.

The 59-year-old golfer won the Open in 1933 and the National Amateur in 1937.

Goodman is now a golf pro in California. He shot a round of 71 as part of the Thursday program and conducted a clinic after the round.

In the evening he was honored at a banquet.

Beatrice 42, Fairbury 18

Beatrice — Senior quarterback Dick Graves scored three touchdowns in leading Beatrice past Fairbury 42-18 in a non-conference game here Friday night.

Tailback Chuck Jones returned the opening kickoff 92 yards for a touchdown for Beatrice, which stretched its season's record to 2-1 while Fairbury dropped to 2-2.

Fairbury — Rosener (2) 55 run, 4 run; Rose, 65 run; Beatrice — Jones (2) 92 kickoff return, 6 run; Graves (3) 1 run, 22 run, 15 run; Hansen, 1 run. PAT — Jones 4 kicks, Tre-

U.S. Golfers Take 21-Stroke Lead

St. Andrews, Scotland (AP) — The United States team went into a 21 stroke lead in the World Senior Amateur Golf Championship at St. Andrews Friday and made virtually certain of retaining the trophy.

The event ends Saturday. The American quartet will start the last day with an aggregate of 679, while their nearest rivals, the Canadians, have 700.

Thirteen countries are represented by teams of four. The championships are decided over four rounds, with the best three scores out of four in each round counting towards the total.

The Americans had a three-man aggregate of 223 for the third round their best score yet. David Goldman of Dallas, Tex., and Merrill L. Carlsmith of Hilo, Hawaii, each carded 74 while Curtis Person of Memphis, Tenn., had 75. Goldman, who has been the cornerstone of the U.S. effort with previous round scores of 75 and 73, three-putted five greens.

Many Runners In Doane Meet

Crete (UPI) — Fifteen state high schools and four local colleges have entered teams for today's running of the 10th Annual Doane College Cross Country Invitational at Tuxedo Park.

Eight Class B teams will be off at 10 a.m. to open the day's events. Entered are Crete, York, Lincoln Piu X, S. Scotus Central Catholic, Hebron Elkhorn, Lexington and Wahoo.

Five Omaha based high schools led the Class A entrants. They are Westside, Creighton Prep, Burke, Benzen, and Rummel. Also entered are Harrier teams from Sioux City Central and Papillion.

The hosting Doane Tiger team is favored to win the college division four-mile race that begins at 11. Last year the Tigers finished second behind Wayne State. Also competing will be teams representing Concordia Teachers College in Seward; Nebraska Wesleyan University from Lincoln and John F. Kennedy College from Wahoo.

Wymore Southern 16, Tecumseh 0

Tecumseh — Halfback Bob Harris ran for 10 points as Wymore Southern blanked Tecumseh 16-0 here Friday night.

By winning the Southern Conference match, Wymore increased its unbeaten record to 4-0 and Tecumseh fell to 3-1.

Wymore — Harris, 1 run; Milligan 65 pass from Rutan. PAT — Harris 2 runs.

Percy Proposes U.S. Halt Bombing, Offensive Tactics

Washington (AP) — Republican Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois proposed Friday that the United States halt bombing and offensive ground operations in South Vietnam as a new peace initiative.

The Illinois senator said that would be "concrete evidence of America's resolve to stop the killing . . ."

Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., forecast announcement of the withdrawal of 40,000 more American troops from Vietnam before Christmas.

Aiken said in an interview he believes "most of the ground troops" will be out by the end of 1970.

"For Christmas" "I expect that the President will give us another troop withdrawal for Christmas," Aiken said, "enough to make 100,000 men this year."

Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania acknowledged that his bid for a 60-day moratorium on Vietnam criticism "seems to have stirred up quite a storm," but stood by it anyway.

"I still think it is more beneficial to the cause of peace to let the President try to achieve it without frantic and raunchy second-guessing," Scott said.

No Reply Expected

Percy told newsmen he already had made his proposal to the White House, but had received no response, and did not expect one.

"This is a good time for us to take another initiative," Percy said, in view of declining U.S. casualty rates.

Percy said a suspension of offensive operations "would keep our men free to defend themselves." He said the halt should be continued "as long as the enemy takes no advantage of the situation."

U.S. To Sue To Prevent Oil Merger

Washington (AP) — The government announced Friday it will sue to prevent Standard Oil of Ohio from taking over the U.S. subsidiary of the huge British Petroleum Co.

The Justice Department, in a terse announcement, said attorneys for BP Oil and Sohio had been advised of the government plans.

But Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell said the department would not try to block an Oct. 9 meeting of Sohio shareholders. He also said no attempt would be made beforehand to prevent a stock exchange provided by an agreement between the two firms.

Mitchell's antitrust chief, Asst. Atty. Gen. Richard W. McLaren, said the government, "in evaluating this merger," gave British Petroleum "no more and no less favorable treatment" than it would have given an American company.

Under the department's view, McLaren said, the consolidation would be illegal under merger guidelines laid down last year.

Vietnamese Denounce Mansfield Idea

Paris (UPI) — South Vietnamese officials Friday denounced Sen. Mike Mansfield's suggestion that the United States speed up withdrawal of its forces and move more independently of the Saigon government.

The North Vietnamese said they found many "positive points" in Mansfield's proposals.

Saigon delegation members in Paris for the peace talks said they found unacceptable the Senate Democratic leader's call Thursday for a rapid U.S. pullout in order to put pressure on South Vietnam to accept a coalition cabinet that would organize free elections.

North Vietnamese diplomats claimed that the Montana senator's statements on U.S. Vietnamese policies bore out the contention that President Nixon was not moving fast enough toward a peaceful settlement.

One South Vietnamese official said: "If you read what Mansfield said you realize that he wants to impose a certain political regime on us."

"Of course we reject this," the Saigon official said. "How can anyone try to impose a political form if government on the South Vietnamese people when, at the same time, he claims to respect our self-determination?"

Greece Lifts Martial Law, Relaxes Press Censorship

Athens (UPI) — Premier George Papadopoulos lifted martial law Friday and relaxed press censorship a notch.

At the same time he told newsmen he would not allow Greek Newspapers to publish a statement made in Paris this week by former premier Constantine Karamanlis, who described the military-backed Greek regime as a "tyrannical failure" and urged the Greek armed forces to oust Papadopoulos.

In addition to the ban on Karamanlis' statement, Papadopoulos said the press would not be allowed to publish anything on military matters, public order, security, statements by outlawed political parties and other organizations, matters promoting high treason and sedition and statements insulting the king, queen or regent.

He said the press however, would be free hereafter to publish "news and to comment in good faith on the actions of the authorities with the purpose of informing public opinion and the common good."

Cast Chosen

Hollywood (UPI) — Steve Forrest, Vera Miles and Jack Elam will head the cast of Disney's "Newcomers" filming in Jackson Hole, Wyo.

Burger Resigns Mayo Clinic Post

Rochester, Minn. (UPI) — Chief Justice Warren Burger has resigned as a member of the Mayo Clinic board of trustees, it was announced Friday.

Atherton Bean, chairman of the board, said Burger, a native of Minnesota, wrote that he had to "re-examine and re-evaluate" his activities and "indeed my entire mode of life in order to work out a new set of priorities for the future."

Former President Lyndon B. Johnson is a member of the board.

Air Too Dirty For Health Man

Washington (UPI) — Dr. Roger O. Egeberg, the government's top health officer, was unable to deliver a speech on air pollution in Detroit Friday afternoon because smoke and fog were so thick over the city that his plane could not land and had to return to Washington.

Black Communist Barred From Teaching

San Francisco (UPI) — University of California regents Friday barred an avowed Communist from teaching for credit this fall at the Los Angeles campus.

But they took no action to prevent Davis, 25, an admitted member of the Communist Party, from delivering guest lectures or teaching non-credit classes until they can fire her. The decision apparently was designed to quiet a conflict between regents and administrators over alleged "insubordination" by UCLA Chancellor Charles E. Young for allowing Miss Davis to be assigned a class.

The young black instructor said before the regents' action that she would be in a UCLA classroom Monday afternoon to lecture 169 students signed up for her course.

Student leaders and campus newspapers have sided heavily with the faculty. The UCLA faculty senate earlier voted 559-12 against the regents position.

The meeting, attended by 20 of the 24 regents, was held behind closed doors in the UC Extension Center here.

Afterwards, most regents departed quickly and withheld comment because they said it was a "personal" matter.

However, Gov. Ronald Reagan said, "I believe a rule was violated," an apparent reference to Miss Davis' assignment to teaching after her dismissal procedure had begun.

Miss Davis, 25, is an associate professor of philosophy and a black. She said she is being fired because of her race.

Regent William Roth of San Francisco, who voted with the minority, said the dispute had turned into "a confrontation between the regents and left on an issue that could and would be settled by the courts."

Roth said the new controversy will distract attention from the "major issue, which is that there is not enough money for the university."

The regents decision was directly contrary to recommendations of the university president, Charles J. Hitch and the UCLA chancellor Charles E. Young.

'Indians Won't Be Part Of Society While Their Culture Is Attacked'

By KEN NEUNDORF
Star Staff Writer

Millford—The director of a center for Indians in Omaha said Friday night that the Indian will never become a part of American society as long as Americans try to disintegrate his culture.

"For 200 years we've been told it's a crime to be an Indian," Eugene Crawford, a Sioux Indian who directs the Neighborhood House Social Center in Omaha, told a conference on Indian problems.

Indians who move to the city need something to identify with despite the white man's attempt to detach them from their culture, Crawford told 100 people, mostly students who attended the conference sponsored by the Methodist Students Chapel at Nebraska Wesleyan University.

"Center Comes In"

"That's where our center comes in," he said.

Crawford explained that the center tries to help the Omaha Indian community with social, health, legal, employment and educational problems.

He said that during the three-fourths of a year since the center began, it has worked on 1,300 cases.

Nate Parker, program coordinator at the center, told the conference that Indians coming from the reservation to the city are "twentieth century immigrants" who face a severe cultural shock.

"At the center, we can try to absorb some of this shock," Parker said.

Health Care Sought

Parker said the center is negotiating with the Bureau of Indian Affairs in an attempt to get hospitals to provide public health care for Indians in Omaha.

Presently, he said, some pregnant Indian women drive from Omaha to the Winnebago reservation to have babies where they are covered by the Public Health Service.

The center is trying to improve Indian relations with the Omaha police department, he said. "Any Indian standing on a street corner in Omaha is a target for police to have as a trusty for the next 30 days," he charged.

The conference will end Saturday after panel discussions by Indian students, group workshops and speeches.

Youths Plan Demonstration, But Big Group Doesn't Show

A demonstration planned for the Lincoln Action Program offices to protest the cut of 18-to-20-year-olds from the Neighborhood Youth Corps program turned into a registered protest when a large group failed to appear.

The Lincoln youths intended to express their concern about the national directive from the Labor Department last spring indicating that no new persons would be taken into the NYC program over 17 years old.

The demonstration was planned in conjunction with a visit of Mrs. Pam Clark, regional field representative of the NYC program from Omaha, to the LAP offices.

NYC coordinator Mrs. Claudia Robinson reported that some 20 young men and women have been turned away from the out-of-school program during the past three months. She said that six persons 18 and over are still in NYC jobs, since they started before the national directive.

Mrs. Robinson said that she is supposed to terminate the employment of those over 17 when another type of training or a suitable work position is found for them.

Young GOP Unit Backs Districts Election Reform

The Lancaster County Young Republicans Friday night passed a resolution supporting the district plan for electoral reform, according to Gene Shaw, the group's public relations chairman.

The district plan would give each congressional district one electoral vote, to be cast for the district plurality winner. Two additional votes would be cast together for the plurality winner in each entire state. A majority electoral tally would elect the president; in the case of no majority, the election would be decided by a joint session of the Senate and House.

The measure is intended to retain some of Nebraska's present political power, according to Shaw.

Car-Truck Crash Injuries Serious

An 18-year-old Lincoln man suffered serious head injuries Friday evening, when the car he was driving was involved in a collision with a cement truck at 84th and Havelock.

AUTO ... demolished in crash with cement truck.

Car-Truck Crash Injuries Serious

According to County Sheriff reports, the car, driven by Roger Hergenrader, 18, 4430 Meredeth, was going Southbound on 84th, when the cement truck, driven by Richard A. Vaske, 23, 4915 Cleveland, hit the left side of the car forcing it into a ditch on the side of the road.

Hergenrader was reported in serious condition at Bryan Memorial Hospital.

The car he was driving was demolished.

Stink Enough To Drive You Really Batty

Las Vegas, Nev. (AP) — Guests at the International Hotel said, frankly, the 27th floor smelled.

Health experts looked for broken sewer lines. Then, holding their breaths, they looked in the attic.

Workmen, racing to finish the 30-story building in July, had plastered more than 270 bats in an attic space.

Chrysler Head Speaker For Scottish Rite

Virgil Boyd, president of Chrysler Corporation, will address the Lincoln Lodge of Perfection at the lodge's fall reunion banquet Oct. 17th, according to Donald A. Keys, master of ceremonies for the banquet.

Boyd is a graduate of the American Business College in Omaha and holds the 33rd Masonic degree.

The banquet will be part of the two-day fall reunion to be held Oct. 16 and 17 at the Scottish Rite Temple.

In ritualistic activities Friday, the following men received the 18th degree:

Robert W. Blackford, Bernard L. Brown, Elton H. Gibson, Kenneth L. Hanson Jr., Ralph D. Hayner, Harry Hoffman, Mason A. Myers, Dwight E. Nelson, Ernest H. Remmers, all of Lincoln.

New affiliates for 1969 are Frank A. Robbins, Hugo H. Grosz, John N. Oxtun, Stuart D. Howter, Robert W. Changstrom, Robert H. Bowles, Jerry Lindley, Van Duling.

The following Scottish Rite Masons have completed 50 years of active service and will be honored at the banquet with Scottish Rite life memberships:

Allen D. Arnold, Max E. Balfour, Jesse G. Faes, Laurence E. Finney, Lloyd S. Taylor, Guy L. Bastian, William Edgar Gales, Orton E. Jenner, Leonard W. Kline, William C. Oeller, Clyde A. Lynch, Clyde A. Nelson, Granville M. McClerkin, John O. Menzies, Frank B. O'Connell, Raymond Osborn, Frank L. Perkins, William N. Shoemaker, John Sutter, Joe E. Triggs, Robert Van Pelt.

Ritualistic work is scheduled to continue Saturday.

With the onset of chilly weather, Leonard Frede of Nebraska City may have to curtail some of his favorite activities such as swimming and camping out. But he still has plenty of interests left over to keep him very busy.

For Leonard there will still be football, rock collecting, hikes, track and fishing. And if the weather is really bad, he'll be able to catch up on his favorite articles in science publications and the National Geographic.

A student at Nebraska City Junior High, Leonard attends St. Benedict's Catholic church where he serves as an altar boy.

Plans for the future are still in the tentative stage. But it is likely that Leonard will choose a science oriented career.

At the moment, however,

Boyd is a graduate of the American Business College in Omaha and holds the 33rd Masonic degree.

DID YOU KNOW THIS? IT'S A FACT:

The "closed forest," a humid region that stretches from the barren coastal strip of Ghana far into the wooded Ashanti interior, holds one of the world's largest deposits of aluminum ore, or bauxite.

Young starlings sometimes eat their own weight of insects and berries in a day.

Dutch merchants in the 17th century started the modern seashell craze by returning from the East Indies with rare and beautiful shells. Cultivated and fashionable Europeans assembled "cabinets," large rooms containing shells, corals, bones and other natural curiosities.

The total length of oil pipelines in the United States is more than 216,400 miles.
